

MIDDLEBURG.

—Don't forget the horse show here Saturday.

—J. W. McWhorter has contracted with George W. Jeter to build a two-story business house on the lot he lately bought of C. R. Carson.

—Prof. Buck, of Georgetown College, will deliver a series of lectures at the Baptist church, beginning on Saturday night before the 4th Sunday in April.

—There are four applicants for the post office here and things are getting quite lively. Mrs. Lula McAninch is the last to enter the ring and a more worthy lady could not be appointed to handle the pouches.

—E. O. Singleton and F. M. Ware, of McKinney, attended church here Sunday. J. C. Coulter and A. R. Spears are peeling bark this week on Trace Fork. Uriah Ellis, Esq., of Big South Rolling Fork, came over Saturday to see his daughter, Mrs. Enoch Wesley.

—Forest fires raged in the knobs here about last week and owing to the very high winds it was very hard to manage. Much damage was done. Those who suffered most near here were Philbert Richards and Joseph Douglas at Grove, the latter's farms being left almost fenceless, though everybody along the C. & G. railway suffered more or less.

—Mrs. Susan Collinsworth, wife of J. C. Collinsworth, died on the 7th inst., after a lingering illness of some two years of cancerous trouble. Mrs. Collinsworth was Miss Cotton, daughter of Mr. Thos. Cotton, of Alum Springs, Boyle county, and a most estimable lady. She was a kind neighbor, a loving mother and a devoted wife. She leaves a husband and a little son about five years old. After services at her home here by Rev. J. Q. Montgomery, her remains were taken to Danville for interment.

LONDON, LAUREL COUNTY.

—Wm. Tanner, jeweler, of Manchester, is here.

—Frank Scent is down from Flat Lick on a short visit to his many friends here.

—Williams, Watkins & Tuttle have bought out George W. Baker's depot grocery store.

—R. M. Jackson sold Hon. John W. Green, of Knoxville, a saddle horse once known as Garrard Chief for $225 Wednesday.

—Mrs. W. B. Catching, who has been with her sister, Mrs. J. A. Sawyer, at Newcastle, for several months, returned a few days ago.

—J. A. Riley, J. D. Pitman, Ad. Reese and S. F. Jackson left Tuesday via the overland route to the Cumberland river, to catch all the fish there is in it. C. M. Randall and J. H. Jackson went to Ely's for the same purpose. Capt. Abner Daniel, of Richmond, has been in London a few days.

—John L. McKee, of Danville, was here Tuesday for the purpose of securing Laurel Seminary for the State Presbytery to establish a school here. He came at the request of the Seminary trustees, who want to establish a 1st class school. The arrangements will probably be made.

—Monday night the prisoners made an unsuccessful attempt to break jail. They succeeded in getting out of the cage and had also loosened and taken out most of the brick between them and liberty. Jailor Lovel's new dog kept barking furiously and he got up to see what was the matter, and discovered them just in time to prevent their escape.

—Wade Wyatt, living in the eastern part of the county, was arrested Monday, charged with murder, and at examining trial Wednesday was turned loose. A woman living at his house had given birth to twins (illegitimate) and the proof showed that the birth was premature. The family, in order to shield the woman from the gossips, had tried to keep the matter a secret, but it having leaked out and the children having been buried privately, hence the arrest.

—Melville Phelps, a prominent citizen of the county, died at his home near Bush's Store, Tuesday, April 11, of consumption. Mr. Phelps, who was known all over the county as "Dock," was 53 years old, was a prominent republican, having been elected one term as jailer of the county. He was a member of the Baptist church and was a Mason, as well as having engaged in the distilling business for many years.

DANVILLE.

—Al Field's Minstrels will be at the Opera House Monday night.

—There are 21 appearances for the term of the circuit court which begins next Monday.

—Messrs. W. K. A. and D. P. R. have returned from a fishing excursion to Green River.

—Mr. B. H. Perkins left finally for Middleboro Wednesday. His family will follow him in several days.

—Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Spears, of Nicholasville, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Yeiser, Tuesday and Wednesday.

—At Rue & Faulconer's sale of saddle horses and roadsters, held on the Fair grounds Tuesday and Wednesday, 89 horses were sold, bringing $12,849.

—G. T. Helm, night policeman and chief of police elect, has been named by U. S. Marshal Blackburn as one of his deputies. It is not known yet which place he will accept.

—The first number of the Junction City Times, owned by a stock company and edited by Mr. Thos. H. Fox, of the late Danville Democrat, will be issued Friday morning, 14th.

—Mr. Ned D. Wilkerson, of Nashville, has opened an establishment for repairing and renovating all kinds of stoves and ranges, in the old Manwaring corner on Main street.

—The types made me say in your last that Will George, a young colored man of Danville, was shot dead in a livery stable at Bedford, Ind. It should have been "found dead." Later developments show that it was old man Wm. George and not the young man that it was first thought to be.

—Bud Bruce, sometimes called 'Egypt' from the darkness of his complexion, heaved a brick at Joe Chenault Tuesday night because Joe looked at Minerva Nelson, who is the object of Egypt's affections. For this and nothing more, Egypt was fined $5 and costs in the police court at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning.

—Transylvania Presbytery has been in session here this week with the following named ministers and elders in attendance: Revs. C. B. H. Martin, W. C. Young, J. T. Lapsley, L. Eldy, J. P. McMillan, M. Waller, W. O. Goodloe, James M. Walton, J. R. Terry, James L. McKee; Elders Rue, B. M. Penick, R. M. Alexander, R. M. Cheek, H. C. Baker, A. Withers, G. E. Wiseman, J. E. Cox, W. H. Wherritt, G. W. Grundy, J. C. Allen, A. Lusk.

—Town Attorney W. O. Goodloe on Wednesday morning brought a suit in the circuit court enjoining the board of council of the town of Danville from swearing in Mr. C. C. Fox as town attorney on the 15th inst., and enjoining Mr. Fox from being sworn in on that or any other day. Mr. Goodloe charges that the board of council had no right to hold an election on the first Tuesday in April (when Mr. Fox claims he was elected) and that if the council did have such right, the election was not held in the mode and manner prescribed by law. He charges further that at the time of Mr. Fox's alleged election, the said Fox was holding the office of master commissioner of the Boyle circuit court, and that under the constitution of Kentucky now in force he can not at the same time hold the office of town attorney.

—Mention is made elsewhere of two gentlemen having returned from a fishing tour to Green River. Some time after their return, one of them carried to Ed. Flaig to have repaired a split bamboo fishing rod, which he stated had been broken in an attempt to pull out a very large fish, a bass. The other gentlemen is reported to have said that the fish which broke the rod was a pike, or pickerel. Now in view of this alleged discrepancy in the proof, Lawyer Graham Price, president of the Truthful Fishermen's Association, (limited) has ordered the deposition of Dr. Tom Bohn, of Hustonville, who was one of the party, to be taken, in order to ascertain the exact cause of the breaking. This course was finally determined on because of the rumor that an expert had said that if called upon he must conscientiously express the opinion that the rod was broken by a wagon wheel running over it.

Persons who are subject to attacks of bilious colic can almost invariably tell by their feelings, when to expect an attack. If Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is taken as soon as these symptoms appear, they can ward off the disease. Such persons should always keep the Remedy at hand, ready for immediate use when needed. Two or three doses of it at the right time will save them much suffering. For sale by W. B. McRoberts Druggist, Stanford.

From Head to Foot

You feel the good that's done by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It purifies the blood, and through the blood, it cleanses, repairs, and invigorates the whole system.

In recovering from "La Grippe," or in convalescence from pneumonia, fever, or other wasting diseases, nothing can equal it as an appetizing, restorative tonic to build up needed flesh and strength. It restores every organ into natural action, promotes all the bodily functions, and restores health and vigor.

For every disease that comes from a torpid liver or impure blood, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, and the most stubborn Skin, Scaly, Scrofulous affections, the "Discovery" is the only remedy so certain that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back.

For a perfect and permanent cure for Catarrh take Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Its proprietor offers $500 reward for an incurable case of Catarrh.

A fearful cyclone passed through Nebraska, Iowa and Kansas, doing great damage.

WILLIAMSBURG, WHITLEY COUNTY.

—Dr. Davis, of Knoxville, was over last week fishing.

—Mr. J. L. Gentry has added another story to his dwelling.

—Miss Flora Huguley is visiting her brother, Mr. E. M. Huguley.

—Mr. Robert Bartell, of Somerset, was here a few days last week visiting his old friends.

—Rev. L. E. Tupper baptized three young people in the Cumberland Sunday afternoon.

—Mrs. C. W. Lester and family, who have been visiting at Mt. Vernon, returned last week.

—Last Monday was regular police court day. There was but little work to be done, which speaks well for our town.

—J. M. Meadors had a cow to die last week. It is supposed that she had hydrophobia, as she had been bitten by a dog that was afterwards killed as a mad dog.

—Rev. Terry, of the Bible College, Lexington, preached two very able discourses at the Christian church Sunday. He is a graduate this year and a valedictorian of his class.

—Mr. John W. McCarty and family, of Jellico, have been here for several days. Mrs. McCarty is a sister of Mrs. Moore. Miss Rowena Stanfill spent last Sunday with Miss Lucy Mahan, at Pleasant View. Mr. G. A. Denham is going to build a three room addition to his dwelling. Town Marshal W. H. Ross was in Cincinnati last week.

—Mrs. M. A. Moore, who was reported as very sick in our last, died Tuesday April 11, at about 9 o'clock p. m. She had suffered intensely for nearly two weeks before death came to her relief. Mrs. Moore was a daughter of Mr. Wm. Davis, an old and respected citizen of our county, and her husband has been sheriff two terms and held various other positions of honor and trust. She was in her 41st year and leaves seven children to mourn her loss, the youngest a babe of three weeks. She was buried Wednesday afternoon at the Brier Creek grave-yard, about two miles from town.

—On last Tuesday evening the Misses O'Mara were "at home" to their friends and about 30 of them gathered in their elegant double parlors to celebrate the occasion. After all the guests had arrived a card was presented to each one, with a part of some familiar quotation on it; then the young gentleman was to find the lady who had the remainder of his quotation, which of course gave every one a splendid opportunity to get acquainted. After spending some time in conversation, the guests were conducted to the dining-room, where they found the table spread and covered with refreshments, consisting of ice cream, sherbet, cakes of various kinds and fruits.

It was near about the small hours of the night when the crowd departed, feeling that it would be impossible to have spent a more pleasant evening than the one just gone.

—The farmers are now busy in this favorable weather preparing for the coming crop.

—John Vandever, of color, had a six or seven-year-old child to die Monday, while the family were absent.

—Judge Wallace Jones paid a high compliment to our new circuit court clerk, James Gibony, for the neat manner he had gotten up his work.

—Hon. F. P. Conabest, after a visit of some days among his constituents, returned Monday to his duties in Frankfort.

—The fishermen are now having fair luck in the angling business. Boyle Stone is occasionally seen with a string of 6-inch minnows, showing them about town.

—Very able sermons were delivered by Elder J. Q. Montgomery at the Christian church last Saturday night, Sunday before noon and Sunday night. The elder has steadily grown in popularity in this section.

—Mrs. Rebecca Bailey, a long resident of this place, died at the house of Col. Frank Wolford, in Columbia, last Tuesday, and her remains were brought to this place Wednesday and buried. She was a good old lady and well beloved here, and many followed her body to her last resting place. She was the mother-in-law of Col. Wolford and Maj. G. W. Sweeney, was 92 years old, her maiden name was Fitzpatrick, a family of remarkable longevity.

La Grippe.

During the prevalence of the Grippe the past seasons it was a noticeable fact that those who depended upon Dr. King's New Discovery not only had a speedy recovery, but escaped all the troublesome after effects of the malady. This remedy seems to have a peculiar power in effecting rapid cures, not only in cases of La Grippe but in all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs and has cured cases of Asthma and Hay Fever of long standing. Try it and be convinced. It won't disappoint. Free trial bottles at A. R. Penny's drug store.

Strength and Health.

If you are not feeling strong and healthy, try Electric Bitters. If La Grippe has left you weak and weary, use Electric Bitters. This remedy acts directly on the Liver, Stomach and Kidneys, gently aiding those organs to perform their functions. If you are afflicted with Sick Headache you will find speedy and permanent relief by taking Electric Bitters. One trial will convince you that this is the remedy you need. Large bottles only 50c at A. R. Penny's drug store.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—Quarterly court was in session Monday and Tuesday, but no business of importance was transacted.

—Rev. J. R. Terry and Mr. Wm. H. Wherritt attended the meeting of the Presbytery at Danville this week.

—The union services will be held at the Methodist church Sunday night and will be conducted by Rev. Taylor, of Danville.

—Much interest is being manifested in the protracted meeting at the Methodist church. Services are held daily at 3 and 7.30 p. m.

—The disagreeable, rainy weather has greatly delayed the work on the new buildings of Messrs. Owsley & Shanks and Batson & West.

—The recent severe wind storms have blown a panel out of the iron fence on the top of the court-house cupola and bent the weather vane down.

—Mr. Bud James, of Harrodsburg, was in town Tuesday on business. Mr. Clyde Herring, of Louisville, is visiting relatives here. Misses Kate Burdett and Maud Robinson are visiting in Danville. Mr. Brown Cogar has returned from Harrodsburg. Mrs. Borders, of Stanford, is visiting her sister, Mrs. C. C. Stormes. Mr. C. C. Stormes has been confined to his room several days by illness. At this writing he is somewhat improved. Cabell Denny has gone to Washington City to visit relatives.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—Miss Georgie Webster, of Chicago, is the latest goose of a wealthy and prominent family to give up her luxurious surroundings and marry a coachman.

—Mrs. Benjamin Queen has obtained a divorce from her 60 year-old husband at Columbus, Ind., because he kissed the hired girl. At this rate, husbands will soon have no rights that the courts will respect.

—The wealthy Mrs. Hiller, of Boston, who married her coachman, Surrette, last week, has caused her husband to assume the name of Henry Hiller and will send him to Harvard College to acquire an education to fit him for his new station.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—Rev. A. V. Sizemore will preach at Logan's Creek at 3 p. m. Sunday.

—Lexington is preparing for a large crowd at the meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society April 28, 29 and 30.

—No preaching at the Methodist church here Sunday. Rev. W. E. Arnold will preach at McKendree morning and night.

—Rev. A. V. Sizemore will preach at Rowland Sunday night and Rev. J. H. Julian will begin a protracted meeting there Monday night.

—Dr. Talmage says, "Do not go from your well filled tables with the idea that pious talk is going to stop the gnawing of an empty stomach or to warm stock-inglees feet. Take bread, take raiment, take medicine, as well as take prayer."

—After tearing Bowling Green up one side and down the other Sam Jones has departed for other fields to conquer. The first night he called for money to help pay the expenses of the show, only $40 was forthcoming. The next night he called the audience a lot of "nasty old liars and hypocrites" and they put up $1,500. Samivel evidently knew the manner of people he was talking to.

—It is said that E. W. Lillard, of Danville, is to be U. S. Marshal Blackburn's chief deputy.

—Wm. Williams, of Chicago cut his wife's throat and with the same knife ended his worthless life.

—It is said that 25 school children were killed in a school-house near Tunica, Miss., by the cyclone.

—Gov. Brown refuses to pardon Mrs. Dr. Stivers, who cruelly beat a servant girl, and she will go to jail for four months and pay $200.

—M. D. Hardin, son of Gen. P. Watt Hardin, has been chosen by Centre College to represent it in the Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Contest, which meets in Columbia, S. C., May 18.

—Master Price Keller, the 13-year-old son of Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Keller, was drowned Wednesday of last week while in bathing near his home in Meridian, Miss. The remains were brought here.—Harrodsburg Saying.

After waiting to give the firm of Walton, Johnson & Meacham an opportunity to say it, let it be remarked that Fred Grant will take a trip home, after taking a Trip to make an official call on 'Is Royal' Ignace Franz Yozel.—Newport Journal.

SEVERANCE & SON.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

My wife was confined to her bed for over two months with a very severe attack of rheumatism. We could not get nothing that would afford her any relief, and as a last resort gave Chamberlain's Pain Balm a trial. To our great surprise she began to improve after the first application, and by using it regularly she was soon able to get up and attend to her house work. E. H. Johnson, of C. K. Knutson & Co., Kensington, Minn., so sent bottles for sale by W. B. McRoberts, Druggist, Stanford.

LIVE STOCK
TREATMENT OF STALLIONS.

Some Excellent Horse Sense From a Successful Breeder.

I owned the Duke of Perche, and in the 13 years I owned him he never got
 as few as 81 mares in foal in one year,
 while he did get as high as 150 colts
 in a single year. He served a large number of mares every year I had him
 and died when past 20 years old from strangled hernia. He had served 91
 mares that year, and the last five served within the last week of his life all got in foal.

I tried all the various ways of keeping and using this horse. I moved him during the season the first three or four years I had him, drove him on the road
 one or two winters, used him in the lumber woods hauling lumber and logs a couple of winters beside another stallion,
 used him to break colts with, and one or two winters had a man ride him from two to four miles a day.

Finally the last few years I gave him
 a big box stall and led him to water
 twice a day, and that was all the exercise he had, yet he was never more sure in his life than those last years. Neither were his colts ever more strong or vigorous, and they were always strong,
 there being 92 foaled in one year before there was one lost. Therefore I have come to the conclusion that many of the whims and theories as practiced by stallion owners are worse than useless, and that their stallions are sure and remain
 so in spite of them instead of on account of them.

I firmly believe that the best and safest way to handle any stallion of the heavy breeds is to give him a large box stall with a field of an acre or so attached, with water in his stall and the lot fenced with wire that the air may circulate freely, and then let him run
 except in very cold or rainy weather
 when he should be kept in, and a horse
 that has not gimp enough to exercise
 himself all he needs without chasing with a whip should never be bred to, but castrated at once.

I believe also that the closer we follow nature the surer we are to be right, and therefore should breed mares when they are in heat, be it seven days or seventeen after foaling. There can be no positive time given or rule laid down for all to follow. I have had mares that would never get in foal till the colts
 were two months or so old, and others that when bred from the seventh to tenth day would always get in foal, but when allowed to go by that time could not be got in foal again until after the colt was weaned.

Neither do I think it wise to examine mares, except in unusual cases perhaps,
 and I have not the least doubt that more abortions have been caused and loss of service occasioned by examining them at
 from three to eight weeks after breeding than have ever been gained by such examinations, especially by the ordinary stallion keepers. I have never been able to learn by observation or otherwise any way to tell whether a mare was likely to breed or not except by having her served by the horse. Many times I have thought I had, but always something turned up
 soon to show me that I could not tell,
 and this applies to all other notions and whims regarding care of stallions and horse breeding in general. One needs to have a lot of good common sense and use it.—E. Woodman in Breeder's Gazette.

The Delaine Merino.
 No one breed can supply the office designed to the whole ovine family. Each breed has its peculiarities, which adapt it,
 a little better than any other, to a certain environment. No breed but with proper care will conduct its owner up the hill of prosperity. The smooth Delaine Merino will come as near as any to being an all purpose sheep. While the Merino wool will not supply the place of coarser materials in the manufacture of some fabrics, it will come nearer than any other one grade in supplying the wants of man.

Do I hear some one say there is too much gum and grease along with it—
 that we cannot afford to have so much of the best part of our feed converted in-
 to an article which yields no returns
 save to the railroad corporations that are instrumental in its transportation?
 That is all true, but we can dispense
 with this great excess of foreign matter without exterminating the Merino. By proper breeding the Merino can be made to produce meat fit for a king, and the wrinkled Merino may become a stalwart, noble creature, attracting the eye and worthy a tenement on the most princely farms that dot the prairies of Iowa. N.
 Sanson, an eminent writer on the subject of "How to Feed and Clothe the Millions of Europe on Their Small, High Priced Farms," declares in favor of the wool and mutton producing Merino.

In February, 1890, I sold a carload of grade Shropshire lambs and yearlings
 which averaged in Chicago 121 pounds and sold for 61 cents. The same year soon after shearing I shipped a load of 2-year-old half blood Delaines, the other half being the Vermont type, that averaged 105 pounds and sold for 51 cents.
 As I had their fleeces left I considered that there was as much profit in the latter as in the first load. As to the dressing qualities of the Merino, at the fat stock show of 1889 the produce of a Shropshire ram and a Merino ewe won the prize over all breeds on the block.—
 Joseph Edgerton.

When hens are first allowed to run out after confinement for the winter,
 if they have not had an abundance of green food or good clover hay they will sometimes eat so greedily of the grass
 that they find, and which is dead and dry, that it will pack their crops and they become "crop bound." There is but one remedy. Cut open the crop with a sharp knife, remove the hay and sew up the wound. But a hearty feed of cabbage leaves is a preventive of the trouble, and that is better than a cure.

THE BRONZE TURKEY.
Early Hatched Turkeys Will Weigh Fifteen Pounds by Thanksgiving.
 The bronze turkey heads the list of our improved varieties. Of late years it has supplanted the smaller kinds on account of its great size, hardiness, richness of plumage and adaptation to the farm. It is purely an American breed.
 The bronze turkey varies the least from the wild breed in respect to color and is a decided improvement upon it both in size and luster of plumage. Nothing can exceed the brilliant and varied tints
 of color of a bronze gobbler in his second year. They permeate through the rich dark bronze, assimilating to that of burnished gold in the sunlight and fairly rivaling the famed Impeyan pheasant in richness and luster.

When bred pure and from choice
 strains, these birds attain heavy weights.
 They are the largest of the poultry race
 and acclimated to our cold and changeable climate. They are well adapted for farmers and suburban residents who have plenty of range, being more profitable when they can roam through the meadows, stubbles and groves and procure a large share of their living. If hatched early and properly cared for and fed, they will average from 12 to 15 pounds at Thanksgiving. At maturity
 they often reach 35 pounds and more,
 but from 20 to 25 pounds may be taken as a fair average. A 2 or 3-year-old bronze gobbler crossed on the common turkey will add several pounds to the weight of each of the chicks the first year. The excess of weight in an ordinary brood would pay the first cost of the sire and leave an improved stock for further profit.

The custom of keeping up Thanksgiving and other winter holidays is an incentive for raising this American bird.
 The Americans do not take to goose flesh so kindly as the Europeans. Every farmer and suburban resident outside of crowded localities can raise turkeys. It is not very difficult if one observes three requisites—namely, healthy and robust stock for breeders, proper food for the young birds and security from wet and dampness until they show red about the head.

The young brood should be placed with the mother in a large, roomy coop, safe
 from rain and cold winds, on a knoll or elevated spot facing the south. The grass and weeds around the coop should be cut close. Two boards placed edge-wise and staked each side will serve for a temporary fence. Chaff, dry leaves or cut straw should always be at the bottom of the coop to prevent the poult resting on the damp ground. Hard boiled egg and stale bread crumbs mixed,
 with a little sweet milk added at first;
 baked oatmeal or middlings and oatmeal mixed, with a pinch of sulphur
 mixed in the food twice a week; cut onions and dandelions mixed with the food, cottage cheese, milk, corn cake and
 brown bread, cracked wheat and millet.
 The meal should be baked until the birds
 get a good start, and be sure to prevent them from getting wet or damp till they feather out.

Marketing Honey.
 The honey needs to be put in small cases and in attractive form. Inferior honey packed in neat boxes will sell better than the superior grades packed in large, clumsy packages. The consumers are tending more and more toward the small packed arrangement for honey,
 and the large old fashioned boxes are now nearly obsolete. The honey must be gathered as soon as the season closes
 and be shipped at once to the market.
 The early stock always commands the best prices, for later the glut will begin
 and prices will drop immediately.

When the white honey season is over,
 take the nectar from the hive and place
 it in a room where the temperature is kept at about 88 degrees. It will ripen
 in such a place as well as in the hive,
 and there will be less loss. Honey left in the hive to ripen often gets stained and darkened by the bees, who begin to prepare for winter when fall comes. The sections should be made as clean as possible and packed in neat crates. If each section is made clean and stamped with the owner's name, it is sure to command
 a good price. If there is no good market for it at the stores, attempt to retail it to customers that can be reached by wagon. Producers should know the value of their product. Because honey was high or low last season does not make it so the present one. The prices quoted in the papers must be the criterion.—Helen Wharburton in American Cultivator.

Live Stock Points.
 The Leghorns are an Italian breed of fowls. The Plymouth Rocks are purely American and a breed for Americans to be proud of.

It cannot be said too early or often:
 Don't turn your stock upon the pastures
 before the grass is well set and the ground hardened. It is ruin even in June to turn animals upon pastures immediately after a rain. Every hoof leaves its imprint upon the soft ground and a rut washes
 in the place or it packs so hard that the grass is killed. If the animals are allowed to nip the tender, watery grass before it is well started, your pastures will be when you most need them as barren and dry
 as the desert of Sahara.

If you find your dry feed running short
 this spring and summer, take warning
 and put up more next fall.

After you turn the cattle upon the pasture do not let them wear paths in the ground any more than you can help.
 Cowpaths wash into ruts and hollows.
 If you find a path worn by the cows'
 feet to the point where the earth begins
 to wash or pack, put obstructions in it so that the animals must walk around.
 Brush or stones do not look pretty in a field, but if you put them in a worn pasture path the place will in a year be covered with a beautiful growth of grass.

The Hackney is the name of a new publication to be devoted to the interests

LAMB CREEP.
 Convenient Device For Feeding Lambs Before They Are Weaned.

A. Peg for shifting sliding frame. B. Sliding frame. C. Horizontal rollers. D. Upright rollers.

Lamb creep. The simplest way of making a lamb creep is to take two strips, long enough to reach across the corner of the pen and strong enough to hold stiffly the narrow,
 upright pieces that should be nailed to them about one foot apart at first.

As the lambs grow, the spaces between the uprights must be increased. An ingenious and very useful construction specially devised for this purpose is shown in the picture. It can be readily seen from the illustration how the size of the opening may be easily changed by shifting the peg at A. By doing that the sliding frame, B, is moved; and that throws the upright rollers, D, closer or farther apart. The scale of the plan is one inch to the foot.

The framework of the creep is made of light, flat, iron strips. The upright and horizontal rollers are made of hard wood, about 2 inches in diameter. The creep is 3 feet 4 inches high and 4 feet 6 inches wide. The stationary, upright rollers are a foot apart and 2 feet long.
 The illustration shows the creep opened as wide as possible. The two end strips of iron are extended so that the creep
 may be readily driven into the ground,
 and by running a board partition from either side it is easy to separate a small apartment for the lambs, either in the sheds or fields.

Inside the apartment for the lambs we have a small wooden trough that is specially suited for feeding lambs. It differs from an ordinary grain trough for feeding grain to sheep in that a narrow strip runs along the top of the trough about eight inches above the center of the part of the trough that holds the grain. This is to keep the lambs out of the trough. In crowding for their feed they would get into the trough with their feet and spoil the food if it were not for this arrangement.—Professor J. A.
 Craig, Wisconsin Experiment Station.

Riding His Hobby.
 A Long Island man, Dr. Jackson, is an enthusiastic breeder of ponies—Shetland, Iceland and Welsh. The Rural New Yorker, from which our illustration is copied, has the following:

Here we see him really "riding his hobby," for he stands astride of the smallest mature pony in the country.
 This is Sugar Plum, a "skewbald" Shetland mare 4 years old and fully grown and developed. You can see that the doctor stands flat footed on the ground without sitting or throwing any weight
 upon the little horse. This is a good way to "ride a hobby"—keep it under perfect control and show it off to the best advantage and still do not injure it and "ride it to death."

RIDING HIS HOBBY.

The pony breeding business is profitable to those who understand it and are properly fixed to conduct it. There is a demand for dwarfs and giants. These bring the high prices, while the ordinary sized horses, unless of very superior quality, will bring only ordinary prices.

A hundred of the little fellows turned out in the paddock together form a picture to delight the eye. It is only in size that these ponies are inferior to their bigger brethren. In endurance they are no whit behind the larger horses, indeed it is claimed by the doctor that he can drive more miles in six days with a team of ponies than can be made by a team of horses. They are tough and wiry, and while they cannot travel so fast as the horses of greater size they can keep at it for more consecutive hours. For intelligence and responsiveness to training they really excel, and in kindness and affectionate dispositions
 they are far better equipped, as a rule.

A reporter of a New York daily paper lately described the Guernsey breed of cattle as "spotted Shorthorns, always plump." The same young man would probably describe a Shire horse as a Shetland pony, always plump.

RANGER.
 I will stand my jack, Ranger, the present season at my place 1 1/2 miles west of Hudsonville, on the Bradfordville pike.

At $8 to Insure a Living Colt.
 Lien retained on colt till season is paid.
 Ranger is 15 1/2 hands high, black with white points. Bred and raised by W. H. Carpenter, of Newmilledale, Tenn., and is registered in the Breeders' Association of Nashville, Tenn. He is a fine performer and sure footed getter.

Chancy Denmark,
 265.
 The fine saddle stallion Chancy Denmark, 265,
 will make the season of 1891 at the stable by unexcused fees, 5 of a mile from Hubbs's store
 on the Rush Branch turn pike and will serve mares at

$10 to Insure Colt 4 Months Old.
 Chancy Denmark, 265 is a bay horse full 16 hands high, foaled in 1887, sired by Hubbs's On the 1st dam by old Stonewall Jackson. His colts are true and of good size, and will compare with anybody's saddle stallion. We have yearlings and two year olds on our farm; can be seen any time.
 Chancy Denmark is sound without a blemish
 on him.

TOM CURTIS
 He is a coal black jack, 15 1/2 hands high with out shoes, heavy body and good bone.
 He is by Bourbon Chief, the finest jack in the world, sold for $2,000.

Bourbon Chief was sired by Redmond's Hercules, he by Imp. Hercules, and his dam by Espartero. Bourbon Chief's dam was by Col
 Lear's Imp. Napoleon 3d; 2d dam by Beuna Vista 3d dam by Imp. Castilian. Beuna Vista was sired by the great Comptone; he by Tuppermore; he by Imp. Warrior, which was acknowledged the best jennyet jack ever in Kentucky. Bourbon Chief is 16 hands 3 inches high without shoes, making him
 the biggest jack in the world. He is a coal black with mealy nose, and for form, weight, style, action and appearance he has no equal. He serves jennets at $25 the season or $40 to insure a living colt.

Tom Curtis' 1st dam by Joe Phelps' big jack and her dam by Sam Phelps' jack; 2d dam by Black Sampson.

BOURBON CHIEF
 Sired by old Bourbon Chief whose pedigree is given above. His dam was Black Jennet, she was sired by a jack by Jason Walker's Castilian and out of a full sister to Beuna Vista, who was out of a jennyet by Black Sampson. Both jacks will stand at $10 to Insure Colt 4 Months Old.

 The service fee will be due in all cases where mares are parted with or goes out of the country
 when such fact is ascertained by us & lien retained on all colts until season fee is paid.
 Mares and jennets kept at reasonable rates.
 Care taken to prevent accidents, but not responsible should any occur.

TREATMENT OF STALLIONS.

Some Excellent Horse Sense From a Successful Breeder.

I owned the Duke of Perche, and in the 13 years I owned him he never got as few as $1 mares in foal in one year, while he did get as high as 150 colts in a single year. He served a large number of mares every year I had him and died when past 20 years old from strangulated hernia. He had served 91 mares that year, and the last five served within the last week of his life all got in foal.

I tried all the various ways of keeping and using this horse. I moved him during the season the first three or four years I had him, drove him on the road one or two winters, used him in the lumber woods hauling lumber and logs a couple of winters beside another stallion, used him to break colts with, and one or two winters had a man ride him from two to four miles a day.

Finally the last few years I gave him a big box stall and led him to water twice a day, and that was all the exercise he had, yet he was never more sure in his life than these last years. Neither were his colts ever more strong or vigorous, and they were always strong, there being 92 foaled in one year before there was one lost. Therefore I have come to the conclusion that many of the whims and theories as practiced by stallion owners are worse than useless, and that their stallions are sure and remain so in spite of them instead of on account of them.

I firmly believe that the best and safest way to handle any stallion of the heavy breeds is to give him a large box stall with a field of an acre or so attached, with water in his stall and the lot fenced with wire that the air may circulate freely, and then let him run except in very cold or rainy weather when he should be kept in, and a horse that has not gimp enough to exercise himself all he needs without chasing with a whip should never be bred to, but castrated at once.

I believe also that the closer we follow nature the surer we are to be right, and therefore should breed mares when they are in heat, be it seven days or seventeen after foaling. There can be no positive time given or rule laid down for all to follow. I have had mares that would never get in foal till the colts were two months or so old, and others that when bred from the seventh to tenth day would always get in foal, but when allowed to go by that time could not be got in foal again until after the colt was weaned.

Neither do I think it wise to examine mares, except in unusual cases perhaps, and I have not the least doubt that more abortions have been caused and loss of service occasioned by examining them at from three to eight weeks after breeding than have ever been gained by such examinations, especially by the ordinary stallion keepers. I have never been able to learn by observation or otherwise any way to tell whether a mare was likely to breed or not except by having her served by the horse. Many times I have thought I had, but always something turned up soon to show me that I could not tell, and this applies to all other notions and whims regarding care of stallions and horse breeding in general. One needs to have a lot of good common sense and use it.—E. Woodman in Breeder's Gazette.

The Delaine Merino.

No one breed can supply the office designed to the whole ovine family. Each breed has its peculiarities, which adapt it, a little better than any other, to a certain environment. No breed but with proper care will conduct its owner up the hill of prosperity. The smooth Delaine Merino will come as near as any to being an all purpose sheep. While the Merino wool will not supply the place of coarser materials in the manufacture of some fabrics, it will come nearer than any other one grade in supplying the wants of man.

Do I hear some one say there is too much gum and grease along with it—that we cannot afford to have so much of the best part of our feed converted into an article which yields no return save to the railroad corporations that are instrumental in its transportation? That is all true, but we can dispense with this great excess of foreign matter without exterminating the Merino. By proper breeding the Merino can be made to produce neat fat for a king, and the wrinkled Merino may become a stalwart, noble creature, attracting the eye and worthy a tenement on the most princely farms that dot the prairies of Iowa. N. Sanson, an eminent writer on the subject of "How to Feed and Clothe the Millions of Europe on Their Small, High Priced Farms," declares in favor of the wool and mutton producing Merino.

In February, 1890, I sold a carload of grade Shropshire lambs and yearlings which averaged in Chicago 121 pounds and sold for 64 cents. The same year soon after shearing I shipped a load of 2-year-old half blood Delaines, the other half being the Vermont type, that averaged 105 pounds and sold for 54 cents. As I had their fleeces left I considered that there was as much profit in the latter as in the first load. As to the dressing qualities of the Merino, at the fat stock show of 1889 the produce of a Shropshire ram and a Merino ewe won the prize over all breeds on the block.—Joseph Edgerton.

When hens are first allowed to run out after confinement for the winter, if they have not had an abundance of green food or good clover hay they will sometimes eat so greedily of the grass that they find, and which is dead and dry, that it will pack their crops and they become "crop bound." There is but one remedy. Cut open the crop with a sharp knife, remove the hay and sow up the wound. But a hearty feed of cabbage leaves is a preventive of the trouble, and that is better than a cure.

THE BRONZE TURKEY.

Early Hatched Turkeys Will Weigh Fifteen Pounds by Thanksgiving.

The bronze turkey heads the list of our improved varieties. Of late years it has supplanted the smaller kinds on account of its great size, hardiness, richness of plumage and adaptation to the farm. It is purely an American breed. The bronze turkey varies the least from the wild breed in respect to color and is a decided improvement upon it both in size and luster of plumage. Nothing can exceed the brilliant and varied tints of color of a bronze gobbler in his second year. They permeate through the rich dark bronze, assimilating to that of burnished gold in the sunlight and fairly rivaling the famed Impeyan pheasant in richness and luster.

When bred pure and from choice strains, these birds attain heavy weights. They are the largest of the poultry race and acclimated to our cold and changeable climate. They are well adapted for farmers and suburban residents who have plenty of range, being more profitable when they can roam through the meadows, stubbles and groves and procure a large share of their living. If hatched early and properly cared for and fed, they will average from 12 to 15 pounds at Thanksgiving. At maturity they often reach 35 pounds and more, but from 20 to 25 pounds may be taken as a fair average. A 2 or 3-year-old bronze gobbler crossed on the common turkey will add several pounds to the weight of each of the chicks the first year. The excess of weight in an ordinary brood would pay the first cost of the sire and leave an improved stock for further profit.

The custom of keeping up Thanksgiving and other winter holidays is an incentive for raising this American bird. The Americans do not take to goose flesh so kindly as the Europeans. Every farmer and suburban resident outside of crowded localities can raise turkeys. It is not very difficult if one observes three requisites—namely, healthy and robust stock for breeders, proper food for the young birds and security from wet and dampness until they show red about the head.

The young brood should be placed with the mother in a large, roomy coop, safe from rain and cold winds, on a knoll or elevated spot facing the south. The grass and weeds around the coop should be cut close. Two boards placed edgewise and staked each side will serve for a temporary fence. Chaff, dry leaves or cut straw should always be at the bottom of the coop to prevent the poult resting on the damp ground. Hard-boiled egg and stale bread crumbs mixed, with a little sweet milk added at first; baked oatmeal or middlings and oatmeal mixed, with a pinch of sulphur mixed in the food twice a week; cut onions and dandelions mixed with the food, cottage cheese, milk, corn cake and brown bread, cracked wheat and millet. The meal should be baked until the birds get a good start, and be sure to prevent them from getting wet or damp till they feather out.

Marketing Honey.

The honey needs to be put in small cases and in attractive form. Inferior honey packed in neat boxes will sell better than the superior grades packed in large, clumsy packages. The consumers are tending more and more toward the small packed arrangement for honey, and the large old fashioned boxes are now nearly obsolete. The honey must be gathered as soon as the season closes and be shipped at once to the market. The early stock always commands the best prices, for later the glut will begin and prices will drop immediately.

When the white honey season is over, take the nectar from the hive and place it in a room where the temperature is kept at about 58 degrees. It will ripen in such a place as well as in the hive, and there will be less loss. Honey left in the hive to ripen often gets stained and darkened by the bees, who begin to prepare for winter when fall comes. The sections should be made as clean as possible and packed in neat crates. If each section is made clean and stamped with the owner's name, it is sure to command a good price. If there is no good market for it at the stores, attempt to retail it to customers that can be reached by wagon. Producers should know the value of their product. Because honey was high or low last season does not make it so the present one. The prices quoted in the papers must be the criterion.—Helen Warburton in American Cultivator.

Live Stock Points.

The Leghorns are an Italian breed of fowls. The Plymouth Rocks are purely American and a breed for Americans to be proud of.

It cannot be said too early or often: Don't turn your stock upon the pastures before the grass is well set and the ground hardened. It is ruin even in June to turn animals upon pastures immediately after a rain. Every hoof leaves its imprint upon the soft ground and a rut washes in the place or it packs so hard that the grass is killed. If the animals are allowed to nip the tender, watery grass before it is well started, your pastures will be when you most need them as barren and dry as the desert of Sahara.

If you find your dry feed running short this spring and summer, take warning and put up more next fall.

After you turn the cattle upon the pasture do not let them wear paths in the ground any more than you can help. Cowpaths wash into ruts and hollows. If you find a path worn by the cows' feet to the point where the earth begins to wash or pack, put obstructions in it so that the animals must walk around. Brush or stones do not look pretty in a field, but if you put them in a worn pasture path the place will in a year be covered with a beautiful growth of grass.

The Hackney is the name of a new publication to be devoted to the interests of this breed of horses.

Human beings do not catch "lumpy jaw" from cattle.

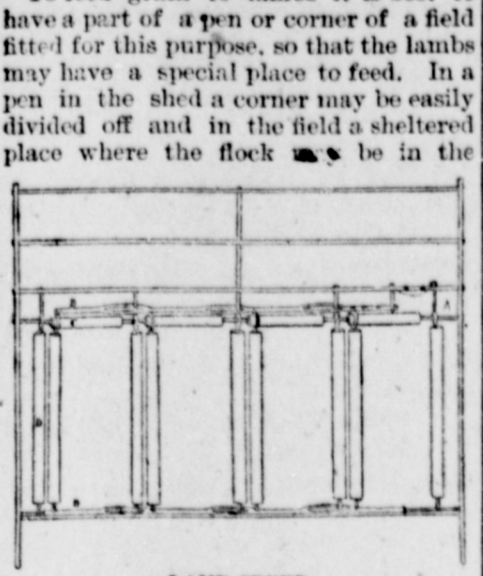

Do not try to raise early lambs next season unless you first provide warm pens for them.

LAMB CREEP.

Convenient Device For Feeding Lambs Before They Are Weaned.

To feed grain to lambs it is best to have a part of a pen or corner of a field fitted for this purpose, so that the lambs may have a special place to feed. In a pen in the shed a corner may be easily divided off and in the field a sheltered place where the flock may be in the habit of gathering should be selected. The simplest way of making a lamb creep is to take two strips, long enough to reach across the corner of the pen and strong enough to hold stiffly the narrow, upright pieces that should be nailed to them about one foot apart at first.

A. Peg for shifting sliding frame. B. Sliding frame. C. Horizontal rollers. D. Upright rollers.

As the lambs grow, the spaces between the uprights must be increased. An ingenious and very useful construction specially devised for this purpose is shown in the picture. It can be readily seen from the illustration how the size of the opening may be easily changed by shifting the peg at A. By doing that the sliding frame, B, is moved; and that throws the upright rollers, D, closer or farther apart. The scale of the plan is one inch to the foot.

The framework of the creep is made of light, flat, iron strips. The upright and horizontal rollers are made of hard wood, about 2 inches in diameter. The creep is 3 feet 4 inches high and 4 feet 6 inches wide. The stationary, upright rollers are a foot apart and 2 feet long. The illustration shows the creep opened as wide as possible. The two end strips of iron are extended so that the creep may be readily driven into the ground, and by running a board partition from either side it is easy to separate a small apartment for the lambs, either in the sheds or fields.

Inside the apartment for the lambs we have a small wooden trough that is specially suited for feeding lambs. It differs from an ordinary grain trough for feeding grain to sheep in that a narrow strip runs along the top of the trough about eight inches above the center of the part of the trough that holds the grain. This is to keep the lambs out of the trough. In crowding for their feed they would get into the trough with their feet and spoil the food if it were not for this arrangement.—Professor J. A. Craig, Wisconsin Experiment Station.

Riding His Hobby.

A Long Island man, Dr. Jackson, is an enthusiastic breeder of ponies—Shetland, Iceland and Welsh. The Rural New Yorker, from which our illustration is copied, has the following:

Here we see him really "riding his hobby," for he stands astride of the smallest mature pony in the country. This is Sugar Plum, a "skewbald" Shetland mare 4 years old and fully grown and developed. You can see that the doctor stands flat footed on the ground without sitting or throwing any weight upon the little horse. This is a good way to "ride a hobby"—keep it under perfect control and show it off to the best advantage and still do not injure it and "ride it to death."

RIDING HIS HOBBY.

The pony breeding business is profitable to those who understand it and are properly fitted to conduct it. There is a demand for dwarfs and giants. These bring the high prices, while the ordinary sized horses, unless of very superior quality, will bring only ordinary prices.

A hundred of the little fellows turned out in the paddock together form a picture to delight the eye. It is only in size that these ponies are inferior to their bigger brethren. In endurance they are no whit behind the larger horses, indeed it is claimed by the doctor that he can drive more miles in six days with a team of ponies than can be made by a team of horses. They are tough and wiry, and while they cannot travel so fast as the horses of greater size they can keep at it for more consecutive hours. For intelligence and responsiveness to training they really excel, and in kindness and affectionate dispositions they are far better equipped, as a rule.

A reporter of a New York daily paper lately described the Guernsey breed of cattle as "spotted Shorthorns, always plump." The same young man would probably describe a Shire horse as a Shetland pony, always plump.

RANGER.

I will stand my jack, Ranger, the present season at my place 1 1/2 miles west of Hustonville, on the Bradfordville pike.

At $8 to Insure a Living Colt.

Lien retained on colt till season is paid.

Ranger is 15 1/2 hands high, black with white points, bred and raised by W. H. Carpenter, of Newminton, Tenn., and is registered in the Breeders' Association of Nashville, Tenn. He is a fine performer and sure foal getter.

J. W. POWELL, Hustonville, Ky.

Charley Sandidge.

Sired by Second Jewel 48. Dam Rowena Webb Russell 744. This fancy bred stallion will make the season of 1893 at Cook's Springs 1/2 miles east of Stanford.

At $10 to Insure a Living Colt.

Money due when colt is foaled, mare parted with or bred to another horse.

Second Jewel, by Cummings' Jewel; he by Washington Denmark.

Jewel's 1st dam by McDonald's Halcorn; 2d dam by Weil's Crusader.

Charley's dam, Rowena Webb Russell, is one of the finest walking animals on earth, having met and defeated all the crack walkers of Central Kentucky, including stallions and geldings. She is by Funk's Sumpter Denmark, by Goodard's Sumpter Denmark, by Gaines' Denmark &c. 2d dam the Tompkins mare.

Charley will be 5 years old April, 25th, 1893; bright bay, white feet 15 1/2 hands and is a natural saddle horse. We will warrant him to be a breeder of saddlers.

COOK & KENNEDY, Hustonville, Ky.

Dick Elmore, Jr.

COMBINED STALLION.

Is a beautiful dark bay; 15 1/2 hands high, star in forehead and left hind foot white. Dick Elmore, Jr., was sired by Dick Elmore; he by St. Elmore; he by Alexander Abdallah, sire of Goldsmith Maid; he by Kysdyk's Hamiltonian, sire of Dexter; he by Abdallah; he by Mambrino; he by Imp. Messenger.

Dick Elmore Jr.'s 1st dam was by Medoc; 2d dam by Aratus; he by Imp. Duomed.

Will make the present season of 1893 at my place 3 1/2 miles from Hustonville, on the Hustonville and Bradfordville Turnpike.

At $7 to Insure a Living Colt.

Dick Elmore, Jr., has proved himself a fine breeder.

Lien retained on colt for season money. Money due if mare is parted with or bred to another horse.

RICHARD DOWNEY, Ellisburg, Casey Co., Ky.

BARNES : 21739.

Sired by C. F. Clay 218.

1st dam Ella R. by Wm. Welch 341.

2d dam Kate by Gills Vermont.

3d dam thoroughbred.

C. F. Clay (put in the 2:30 list last year) by Caliban dam Soprano by Strathmore. Wm. Welch by Hamiltonian, 10. Barnes is a very handsome and speedy colt and should make a fast record this fall. Will make the season at my place 3 miles from Stanford on the Danville pike.

At $10 to Insure a Living Colt.

G. A. LACEY, Stanford, Ky.

Chancy Denmark.

265.

The fine saddle stallion Chancy Denmark, 265, will make the season of 1893 at the stable of the Underwood Bros., 3/4 of a mile from Hustonville on the Rush Branch turn pike and will serve mares at $25.

$10 to Insure Colt 4 Months Old.

Chancy Denmark, 265, is a bay horse full 16 hands high, foaled in 1887, sired by Hubble's On Time, dam by old Stenwall Jackson. His colts are fine and of good size, and will compare with anybody's middle stallion. We have yearlings and two year olds on our farm; can be seen any time.

Chancy Denmark is sound without a blemish on him.

TOM CURTIS

He is a coal black jack, 15 1/2 hands high with out shoes, heavy body and good bone.

He is by Bourbon Chief, the finest jack in the world, sold for $2,000.

Bourbon Chief was sired by Redmond's Hercules, he by Imp. Hercules, and his dam by Imp. Espartaco. Bourbon Chief's dam was by Col. Lear's Imp. Napoleon; 2d dam by Beuna Vista; 3d dam by Imp. Castilian. Beuna Vista was sired by the great Compromise; he by Tippecanoe; he by Imp. Warrior, which was acknowledged the best jenny jack ever in Kentucky. Bourbon Chief is 16 hands 3 inches high without shoes, making him the biggest jack in the world. He is a coal black with mealy nose, and for form, weight, style, action and appearance he has no equal. He serves jennets at $25 the season or $40 to insure a living colt.

Tom Curtis' 1st dam by Joe Phelps' big jack and her dam by Sam Phelps' jack; 2d dam by Black Sampson.

BOURBON CHIEF

Sired by old Bourbon Chief whose pedigree is given above. His dam was Black Jenny, he was sired by a jack by Jason Walker's Castilian and out of a full sister to Beuna Vista, who was out of a jenny by Black Sampson. Both jacks will stand.

$10 to Insure Colt 4 Months Old.

The service fee will be due in all cases where mares are parted with or goes out of the country when such fact is ascertained by us, a lien retained on all colts until season fee is paid.

Mares and jennets kept at reasonable rates. Care taken to prevent accidents, but not responsible should any occur.

BY METROPOLITAN 1372.

Son of Rysdyk's Hambletonian.

Dam JOETTE.

By BLOOD CHIEF 792

Sire of Fannie Robinson, 2:20 1/2

Metropolitan by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, dam Hyacinth by Volunteer, granddam Clara, dam of Dexter and Dictator, by Seely's American Star. Metropolitan is acknowledged by all to be one of the best, and by many the very best, bred stallion ever foaled. His full sister, Reina Victoria, sold at the McFerran Sale for $7,425, the highest price ever paid for a brood-mare at a public sale. Two fillies by Metropolitan, neither of which were ever hooked single, sold at public sale for $1,325, average $662 50.

Blood Chief, by Blood's Black Hawk; dam Miss Duncan, by Scott's Hambletonian, granddam by Aratus; 3d dam by Timoleon. Blood Chief sired Woolley Jim 2:29, Fannie Robinson 2:20 1/2, and Chief 2:21. Blood's Black Hawk sired the dams of Van Arman 2:30 1/2 and Almont 2:26, and granddam of Belle Brasfield 2:30 and Proteine 2:18.

Bryan is a beautiful bay, foaled June 28, 1884. He will make the present season 1893 at Moreland 2 miles north of Hustonville, on the Danville and Hustonville pike,

At $10 to insure a Living Colt.

He is a sure foal getter and a fine breeder. Lien retained on colts for season money, mares bred to another horse or traded off makes season money due.

W. S. WIGHAM, Moreland, Ky.

DIRECTED 13945.

Will make the season of 1893 at "Maples" the old home of Arthur Sims and Wyandotte.

At $20 to insure.

Lien retained on colts for service fee. Directed 13945, was sired by Director 1087, record 2:17; 1st dam Fanny Wilkes, by George Wilkes 519, record 2:22; 2d dam Fan dam of Kate Sprague 2:15, Lil Sprague 2:17 1/2, etc.; 3d dam by Lance, son of Flying Morgan; 4th dam Queen, by General Gifford; 5th dam Fanny, by Chancellor; 6th dam by American Eclipse.

Directed is 15 hands, 15 1/2 inches high; he is magnificently built and splendidly proportioned; deep through the heart, short back, long body, short from knee to ground, short from hock down, fine loin, hip and stifle, nice mane and tail. Crow black, splendid eye, and intelligent countenance. He is beyond any doubt a born winner. A son of the great Director 2:17, the only horse that ever lived with a record as good as 2:17 that has sired two with records better than 2:17. But the power to beget extreme speed is his birth right. Director, having sired Direct 3:04, who has won $28,357.50; Margaret S., 2:12 1/2, winnings $60,224.25; Evangeline 4 yrs old, 2:17 1/2, $2,200; and Directum (3 yrs) 2:12 1/2, winnings $12,657.50, making a total of $60,450.25 for the quarter. Director and his get have won altogether $114,725.75.

RECORD 2:20 1/2

Which was made with but little handling.

Sentinel 21479 was sired by Almont Sentinel, by Sentinel, he by Hambletonian 10.

1st dam by Shakespeare; 2d dam by Long's Hambletonian; 3d dam a thoroughbred.

Sentinel 21479 is a beautiful dark bay, 16 hands high, heavy mane and tail and pronounced by competent judges to be the handsomest horse in Kentucky.

In selecting a stallion I endeavored to get one with a gentle disposition, combined with size, form, fine square trotting action, speed, individual merit as well as pedigree. As a sire I am satisfied that his success is assured, as he has some very promising two-year-olds in his lot. He goes in the 30 list this year. Two of them were sold at the Lexington sales this year and brought good prices.

Sentinel 21479 will make the season of 1893 at my stable at McKinney,

At $15 to insure a Living Colt.

Money due when colt stands up and sucks, mare parted with or bred to another horse. Grass furnished at $2 per month. Not responsible for accidents should any occur.

Jay-Eye-See and Nutwood, half brother to the dam of Maudette 2:10; 4 year-old champion station record, and the sire of the dam of Bellara, 2:08 1/2, also of the dams of three others with records of 2:10, 2:12, and 2:13.

Erricsson Jr. is a solid black, 16 hands high and weighs 1200 lbs., and is a stallion that recommends himself. By Erricsson 130, the champion station of his day. 1st dam by Reddy, by old Pilot, the sire of Pilot Jr., sire of the dams of Maud S., Jay-Eye-See, and Nutwood. His colts are unusually kind, good size, fine style, having produced some of the best of the country can afford.

They are good roadsters and the best of family horses, and it handled would make good racers.

Will make the season at my stable 2 1/2 miles from Hustonville on the Hustonville and Liberty road,

At $10 to insure a Mare in Foal.

Mares bred and traded or bred elsewhere render season due. Lien retained on colts until season is paid.

Pasture $1.50 per month, all mares at owner's risk.

Dictator by Hambletonian (sire of Electioneer, George Wilkes, Dexter, etc.) dam Clara (dam of Dexter 2:17, Alma 2:23 and Astoria 2:29) by American Star 14 (sire of the dams of Guy 2:12, Robert McGregor 2:17, etc.).

1 dam ALICE by Almont 33, record 2:39 1/2, by Abdullah 15 (sire of Goldsmith Maid 2:14, and Belmont, sire of Nutwood 2:18) dam by Mambrino Chief 11, out of a daughter of Pilot Jr. (sire of the dam of Maud S. 2:08 1/2). Almont sired 50 in the 230 list.

2 dam by Norman 25 (sire of Lula 2:14, May Queen 2:20, of the dams of Norval 2:17, Fanny Robinson 2:20, Norman Medium 2:20, etc.) by Morse Horse 6; 1st dam Slocum mare, by Magnum Bonum.

3 dam Young Twyman mare, by Coeur de Leon (Hevis).

4 dam Old Twyman mare, (untraced).

George Dictator will make the season of 1893 at $15 to insure a living colt.

LE GRAND 746.

Black stallion, nearly 16 hands high; foaled 1886; bred by George F. Keene, Shelbyville, Ky.

Sired by Mambrino Le Grand 49, (son of Washington Denmark.)

1 dam Black Silk by Yellow Jacket 112.

2 dam by Drennon.

3 dam by Highlander.

Le Grand has been a very successful show horse, having never been beaten in a show ring. Is perfectly kind and gentle and is a No. 1 breeder.

Will stand at $10 to insure a living colt. I also have

Three Good Jacks,

Which I will stand at the same place and time at $10 to insure a living colt. Will pasture mares at $2, but not responsible for accidents.

M. S. BAUGHMAN, Stanford, Ky.

DILLARD DENMARK

This finely bred saddle station will make the season of 1893 at Cook's Spring, 4 1/2 miles East of Stanford, at $12.50 to insure a Living Colt.

Money due when colt is foaled mares parted with or bred to another horse. Pasture furnished mares at $2.00 per month; will not be responsible for accident should any occur.

Dillard Denmark was sired by Double Denmark by Montrose, he by Diamond, he by Gaines' Denmark, he by the great race horse Denmark.

1st dam by Washington Denmark, 2d dam by John Dillard, 3d dam by Grey Eagle (thoroughbred) Double Denmark's dam Nellie, was by Washington Denmark, 2d dam by Shropshire's Tom Hall.

Dillard Denmark is a beautiful dark sorrel three white feet, heavy mane and tail, 16 hands high, he has proven himself a breeder of large, handsome movers. This is a fine horse if he had no pedigree. But we do not hesitate to say he is a good one. He is the best bred saddle horse in the country. Runs through premium sadders and thoroughbreds on both sides.

All kinds of plants for sale in season.

J. F. COOK, Rowland Ky.

EUREKA CHIEF

Black stallion; 16 hands high; without white; foaled 1888.

Sired by EUREKA.

EIGHT : PAGES.
EVERY FRIDAY.

The decisions of certain U. S. courts that while a man has a right to work or not as he sees fit, he becomes a law breaker when he tries by force to prevent others from taking the job he voluntarily relinquishes, has given the alleged statesmen in the U. S. Senate a chance to howl for the dear departed working-man and give exhibitions of demagoguery we thought some of them incapable of. No one expected anything else of Dan Voorhees, but the country is surprised that so eminent and conservative a man as Senator Gorman should characterize the decisions against boycotts, etc., as the "first step on the part of the judiciary to make snafus of the men who are employed by railroad companies." This is the veriest poppy-cock, and we are pleased to see that Senator Vest, of Missouri, had the courage to speak of the attempt to curry the favor of the laboring men in the way it deserved. The labor organizations, which which will not permit its men to work nor allow others to do so becomes a lawless body and it is the duty of the courts to protect the public in its rights in the premises. That is all there is of it.

There seems to be growing a silly sentiment against capital punishment, and there is little doubt that we are soon to see the beginning of the end. Several of the States have abolished it and the New York Assembly, after trying electrocution for a couple of years, this week by a vote of 78 to 29 passed a bill to that effect, to become operative Sept. 1st. "Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed," was the law laid down in the beginning and should never be repealed by human agency. There are crimes for which even death is poor atonement, and if capital punishment be legally abolished, Judge Lynch will be called to preside oftener than at present. The law-makers may stop hangings in its name, but the judge referred to will have his court always in session to attend to those who need their necks broken.

There is one bill before the Legislature that will never become a law, if the members stay at Frankfort till Gabriel blows his horn. It is the one presented by Mr. Burnett, of Greenup, to levy and collect a tax on dogs, to encourage wool-growing and to suppress the spread of hydrophobia in the Commonwealth. It provides for an annual tax of $1 on each male dog and $5 on each female dog over the age of six months. Such a law is imperatively needed, but the average legislator is a coward and a time-server and knows that the man who owns nothing else but a dog will be turned forever from him, if that dog is taxed. Brer. Burnett is barking in the right direction, but it will be some time before he gets the rest of the pack at Frankfort to yelp in unison with him, the more's the pity.

HON. W. C. OWENS, of Kentucky, who was temporary chairman of the National democratic convention, is said to be slated for a Berlin consulship. Owens was not much of a Cleveland man, but Billy Breckinridge, who was and is, is beseeching the appointment throne in his behalf, so as to get him out of his way for Congress, and he has also corralled the influence of Senator Blackburn in his effort. There is always a cat concealed in the meal tub when politicians show such wonderful love for each other.

The good news comes from India that Dr. Haffkine, the noted Russian bacteriologist, has discovered a method of inoculation that puts cholera almost in as much subjection as vaccination does small-pox. He claims to have tried it on 100 persons with positive results. We fear, however, that like Koch's consumption annihilator and the much vaunted elixir that was to restore old age to adolescent charms, the real cholera conquerer has not been brought to light.

Miss BESSIE MITCHELL, the Chicago girl, who on a wager that she could travel 10,000 miles on railroad trains unattended and without putting her pretty foot on the ground the whole time, has completed the trip in safety and won the money. So far so good, but the bad is yet to come. Miss Mitchell proposes to write a book and give her experiences of the journey.

BRER. MAXWELL swung his axe Tuesday and the heads of 177 fourth-class post-masters fell into the basket. This is the largest number for one day so far, but even this time must be beaten. Grease up the machinery, old boy. The hungry hordes are looking to you.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE has made considerable progress in recent years, but it is to be hoped it has reached the limit. In 32 of the States women are now allowed some sort of suffrage.

THERE are 400 consulates to filled and already 8,000 applications are filed for them. Verily many think they are called, but alas! few are chosen.

Mrs. FRANK LESLIE has tired of her husband, who is a blasted Englishman, and is trying to secure a legal separation from him, but she is finding much difficulty in doing so. The handsome and talented lady will receive but little sympathy in her troubles. She should never have gone to the Old World for a husband, when there are so many eligible men in these United States.

HERE'S bad news for the would-be collectors of internal revenue, of which there are 19 or 20 in this district. It comes from Washington that the president has decided not to consider such applications till the merry month of June. Patience and shuffle the cards, remembering at the same time that all things come to him who waits.

It is said that Col. E. Polk Johnson got what he went after in Washington. We do not know "what is it," but we do know that the old man is deserving of the best plum that could fall from the president's table.

NEWSY NOTES.

—George Warren has been appointed postmaster at Hickman.

—Two farmers at Stanberry, Mo., fired the jail in which they were prisoners, to effect their escape, but were burned to death.

—At Knox, Ind., Oscar Golding, democrat, and John Golding, his son, a republican, are making a hot race for town marshal.

—Jeremiah O'Rourke, of New Jersey, has been appointed chief supervising architect of the treasury.

—The Good Roads Convention was called to order at Bowling Green Wednesday, with over 100 delegates in attendance.

—The Ann Arbor road has brought suit against Chiefs Arthur and Sargent for $300,000 damages. Conspiracy charges are made.

—E. W. Hennesley, wife, son and grown daughter, of near Greenville, S. C., perished in the flames that destroyed their home.

—In a fit of madness a German named Burkhardt, at Fairbury, Ill., held his 16-months-old niece against a red-hot stove till she was fatally burned.

—The town of Robinsonville, Miss., was destroyed by a cyclone Wednesday afternoon. Many people were killed in the surrounding country.

—Marie Prescott and R. D. McLean, her husband, have retired from the stage and are now in Fayette buying fine horses for their Virginia farm.

—The Tennessee Legislature has adjourned, after a stormy and tempestuous session. Let the Kentucky legislators read this item and agree to do likewise.

—Miss Elizabeth Miller, of Springfield, O., committed suicide by sending a bullet through her brain. She was a decided belle and no cause is assigned for the rash act.

—The sum of $3,400,000 in gold was withdrawn Monday from the sub-treasury at New York for shipment to Europe, leaving only $2,600,000 free gold in the treasury.

—At Pittsburgh, Pa., four children are in jail for murdering their aged father, who wanted to marry and bring his wife home. They could not bear the thought of a step-mother.

—The strike at the World's Fair buildings was of short duration. It was to prevent the employment of non-union labor, but it wouldn't work and the men resumed their tools.

—Timothy Burke, a brakeman, had his head cut off by a freight train at Warsaw, Ind., and when his wife saw the headless body she went raving crazy and is still a maniac.

—Gen. Manuel Gonzales, ex-president of the Republic of Mexico, and one of the most famous soldiers that country ever produced, died in the City of Mexico of a complication of diseases.

—Jeff Coates, a Mississippi farmer, got mad with his wife and killed her with an axe. As soon as the citizens found it out they broke Mr. Coates' neck, and there were two burials instead of one.

—It is now claimed that the late Squire Abingdon made a will while aboard the steamship Majestic, en route to the United States, by which a large share of his property will go to Mrs. "Lily" Langtry.

—Secretary Carlisle has appointed Herman W. Van Sinden, editor of the Paducah Standard, his private secretary. Mr. Van Sinden is 30 years of age, a native of Kentucky and a man of much ability.

—Democrats won in the municipal elections in Albany, Newark, Jersey City, Paterson, Trenton, New Brunswick and other cities. The Meyers ballot machine was used with good results in some places in New York.

—A boy about 12 years old and apparently of good family was found dead in a little skiff, which was floating round Vanceburg. The boat had been noticed for several days before it was brought ashore.

—At Pulaski, Tenn., Mrs. Bertin was the victim of an "empty" pistol in the hands of her 15-year-old son. The boy didn't know it was loaded and playfully remarking, "Look out, mother," pulled the trigger. The ball struck her in the forehead, killing her instantly.

—The cyclone which swept Kansas and Missouri Tuesday night killed over 40 persons. It is thought 30 or 40 more were injured in Kansas. The damages to property in both States is heavy. The vicinity of Lexington, Mo., and Brown county, Kansas, suffered worse.

—An explosion occurred in a colliery near London and 300 men were imprisoned, 100 of whom lost their lives.

—Chairman T. H. Carter has issued a call for a meeting of the Republican National Committee at Louisville May 10.

—The big Musical Hall at the World's Fair will have to be remodeled. Theodore Thomas with his orchestra of 75 tested the hall and found the acoustic properties very defective.

—A Cincinnati Italian fruit vender found a live tarantula in a bunch of bananas and gave it to a couple of little boys to play with. Fortunately the father of the little boys happened along in time to save them from a very probable death. When the father went to see the dago about it he had fled.

—The periodical war against the gamblers in Louisville has commenced. The C. J. says the city authorities spared the tender feelings of the gentlemen of the green cloth the humiliation of an arrest in the ordinary way, none of them being taken to the station-house, but all being privately admitted to bail, thereby suggesting a bond of sympathy.

—Following are late appointments: Edward H. Stroebel, of New York, to be 3d assistant secretary of State; Daniel N. Morgan, of Connecticut, treasurer of the United States; Conrad E. Jordan, of New York, assistant treasurer of the United States at New York; Daniel M. Brown, of Illinois, commissioner of Indian affairs; Frank C. Armstrong, of Washington, D.C., assistant commissioner of Indian affairs.

FARM AND TRADE ITEMS.

—R. C. Engleman, Jr., sold to Will Hays a milk cow for $35.

—Alfred Davis sold to George Evans 21 100-pound shoats at 6c.

—P. W. Green bought of M. S. Baughman a bay gelding for $125.

—Wm. McAfee bought of A. J. Smith, of Mercer, a combined gelding for $200.

—Johnson, of Boyle sold to an Anderson county 2 and 3-year-old cattle at 3c.

—Wool.—I want to buy 100,000 lbs. or more of wool. Will pay highest market price. A. T. Nunnally.

—WANTED.—Horses to break and handle. Horses also taken on commission. W. W. Hays.

—M. S. Baughman sold to D. F. Hatfield, of Hatfield, of Ohio, a bay gelding for $150. P. W. Green sold to same party one for $160.

—A dispatch from Beatrice, Neb., says that the famous trotting stallion, Lebasco, died of laryngitis. His owner, J. G. Ladd, had refused an offer of $100,000 for him.

—Wool WANTED.—Bring me your wool and get the highest market price. I want it and will buy it if you will give me an opportunity. Wm. Moreland, Stanford, Ky.

—Prewitt & Wood bought of Thomas Floyd 75 ewes and 60 lambs at $5 per head for the ewes and the lambs thrown in; 96 ewes and 75 lambs of Sidney Dunbar at $6.25.—Advocate.

—M. F. Elkin bought of J. H. Boone a lot of 200-pound hogs at 6c; of Sampson a lot of same at same price; of Thos. D. Newland a lot of 125-pound shoats at 6c and of A. F. Moberly two 1,500-pound steers at 3.60.

—The number of stallions increases every year and there is hardly a neighborhood that is without one. In and around Hustonville there are all told 60 stallions and jacks and it would be a job indeed to count those around Stanford.

—Jesse F. Cook will have his two splendid saddle stallions, Dillard Denmark and Charley Sandidge, on exhibition at Crab Orchard to-morrow, Saturday, afternoon. Examine them before you decide what you are going to breed your mares to.

—The combination sale of Rue & Faulconer, at Danville, could not be considered a decided success, although a great many horses were disposed of. A fairly good crowd was present each day, but the bidding was slow and poor prices as a general thing ruled. The highest price realized was $462, while some went as low as $75. There were 126 put up and probably two-thirds of them changed hands, the best being "bid in" by friends of the owners.

—In the 3-year-old stake to be trotted at the Danville Fair Yeager & Yeager have Woolfolk, by Danville Wilkes, entered and J. P. & C. L. Crow have the two speedy 3-year-old Sadies Scanlon and Alex C., both by Belmont Chief. In the 4-year-old 2:30 stake J. K. and M. S. Baughman have entered a black mare by Messenger Chief, Jr. In the 2-year-old stake J. P. and C. L. Crow, of McKinney, will grapple for the purse with Gen. A. B. by Almont Chief. The Advocate says there will be 22 entries in the 2-year-old trot, 23 in the 3-year-old, and 11 in the 4-year old 2:30 trot, and 40 in the stake for 2:30 trotters.

—Mr. J. K. Baughman, whose large advertisement appears in our horse columns, has a string of stallions that any one would be proud of. Naboth, by Walsingham, proved himself very speedy last year and took a mark of 2:21 and showed miles in 2:18. Mr. Baughman has every reason to believe that he will go much faster this year and believes that 2:15 will be written after his name ere the trotting season closes. Grady Wilkes, by Red Wilkes, is also fast and is a good individual. His saddlers, Stark Denmark and William L., are both splendid movers and their breeding is the very best. The former is a premium horse and took many blue ties last season.

OUR weather dispatch reads, "Fair, cooler Friday."

PLANTS FOR SALE.—Tomatoes and cabbage. O. J. Newland.

ATTEND the Fair meeting at the Court House at 2 o'clock to-morrow, Saturday, afternoon.

HAVE your vehicles repaired, painted and trimmed at Daugherty's Shop. All work guaranteed first class and at reasonable prices. John B. De Nardi.

PRETTY Little Florence Bindley, who played here a few years ago, is drawing crowded houses to the Bijou, in Louisville, in her new play, "The Pay Train."

At the sale of A. T. Martin, at Maywood John Murphy bought the two lots, one with a store-house and small residence on it and the other with a residence and some out-houses, all for $425.

WHILE Becky Lee, an inoffensive negro woman, was walking along the railroad track the other night, near the coal bins, she was struck over the head by some hard substance that laid the flesh open to the bone and dented the latter. She has no idea who her assailant was, unless it was James Prall, with whom she had had trouble, but of his guilt she has no proof.

COME and see our new spring capes and wraps. Hughes & Tate.

I WILL receive a lot of New York goods Tuesday. Miss Mary Daviess Dudderar.

ENAMELED aluminum goods, cheap, dainty and new, for the ladies, at Danks', jeweler.

BUY your seed Irish potatoes of W. H. Wearen & Co., and get the best at the lowest price.

FOR RENT.—Two rooms over Severance & Son's store, cheap. Apply to W. N. Craig, or Dr. Steele Bailey.

GENTLEMEN will do well to examine our clothing, shoes and furnishing goods before buying. Hughes & Tate.

CAPT. DAN O'MALLY's wife presented him with an 11-pound boy Wednesday. The captain is the happiest man in Rowland.

An effort was made by the Opera House manager to have James Whitcomb Riley come here, but the guarantee of $125 scared him off. The largest sum taken in any night of the lecture course was $59.

MESSRS. ORUS AND DANIEL BOWER, of Rockcastle, the great threshers men, were down Wednesday to buy a twine binder and secured a McCormack from Mr. B. K. Wearen. They tell us wheat is looking well in their section and promises a fine crop.

THE FAIR.—About $750 worth of the Fair stock has already been taken and it now seems a certainty. Those who have taken stock are earnestly urged to meet at the Court-House Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock to perfect arrangements. Be sure to be present.

THE Buffalo Cemetery directors ought to have a water pipe run into the grounds. It can be done at small cost and lot owners will be glad to help pay the expense. It is almost impossible to raise flowers there in the summer, as water is unobtainable unless carried nearly half a mile.

Those enterprising Danville merchants, Messrs. A. B. Robertson & Bro., having drawn all of Boyle county to them, are reaching out after the Lincoln county trade, consequently they seek the best medium for laying their wares and low prices before our people, and get away with the best part of this page of the INTERIOR JOURNAL. They have the reputation of handling only first-class goods and at prices that can hardly be duplicated, much less made lower.

THE next meeting of the Central Kentucky Medical Association will be held in Walton's Opera House, at Stanford, on Wednesday, the 19th inst., at 10:30 A. M. Dr. T. O. Meredith, of Burgin, will open the discussion on Typhoid Fever. The Section of Obstetrics and Gynecology will be presented by Dr. Harry Cowan, of Danville. Members intending to read Voluntary will please notify the secretary before the hour of meeting. Steele Bailey, M. D., Sec'y.

STANFORD has the best system of water works, the finest electric plant and one of the best ice manufactories of any place of its size, perhaps, in the United States. Our location is good, our shipping facilities first-class and we are growing with a rapidity our forefathers never dreamed of. The people of the little fenced in village of Danville used to speak of Stanford as Helm's X Roads, but they would give anything but their money to be able to keep up with her now in the fast moving procession of progress.

QUITE a large and representative audience heard the last of the very entertaining course of lectures at Walton's Opera House, Monday night, when John Temple Graves, of Georgia, held up to scorn and derision that miserable parasite on the body politic—the demagogue. He followed his devious ways and marked the vacillating course of this all things to all men creature and in thoughts that breathe and words that burn, held him before the gridiron of public scorn and metaphorically roasted him alive. The exhortation was as terrific as it was deserved and the speaker was repeatedly applauded. In contradistinction to the despicable character of the demagogue, the names and deeds of patriots, who had served their country with a singleness of purpose which took no regard of self, were presented for admiration and emulation. His tribute to Clay, Lincoln and others was a grand piece of word-painting, but when he spoke of the illustrious Virginian, Gen. Robert E. Lee, his eloquence was all-pervading and seemed to send an electric thrill through the hearts of all of his hearers, causing them to almost rise to their feet in their enthusiasm. It was a grand effort and perhaps the more appreciated because it was so unexpected after seeing the man. He is of pygmean stature, not at all prepossessing and when he tries to reach the higher tones his voice is thin and piping. Besides, he didn't have on a dress coat! All these temporary and natural defects were overlooked, however, as choicely chosen words fell from his lips and one soon became spell-bound in listening to his eloquence. The lecture course has been exceedingly pleasant and profitable to all who have heard it, but the 20 guarantors and the Opera House manager are out $3.50 to $15 each on the contract. This result ought not so to be in a town that prides itself on its culture, but 'tis true, 'tis pity and pity 'tis 'tis true.

No house in any interior town ever carried such an unprecedented stock of carpets as Hughes & Tate.

No paper in the State can show a better run of horse advertisements than the INTERIOR JOURNAL. The reasons are twofold. Its value as an advertising medium is unsurpassed and we have the boss solicitor in the business. Look over the paper and you will find that the horse men have something to say on nearly every one of the eight pages.

THE KEELY CURE.—S. S. Shuck, of Lebanon, writes us that he went to the Cure at Crab Orchard four weeks ago under protest, not believing in its efficacy to cure the terrible whisky habit, but he is thoroughly convinced now that it is sure and effective. He says he is a new man and is loud in his praise of Dr. Dix and Mr. and Mrs. Gus Hofmann.

WHEN we increased the size of the INTERIOR JOURNAL to eight pages we thought that sufficient for all practical purposes, but this issue proves that we were wrong, "as usual." The advertisers, who always put their money where it does the most good, have charged upon us and we were forced to surrender without even a chance to capitulate. We would have gotten out a 16-page paper, but the notice of the coming of the army was too short for us to do so in time to appear at the usual hour.

THE court of levy met pursuant to adjournment Tuesday and fixed the tax at 2 1/2 cents on the $100 for ordinary purposes and 3 cents to pay interest on county bonds, which now reach $24,000. This is an increase of 2 cents over last year and was done to get the county on a cash basis, that is pay the claims against it as soon as allowed. Even with this slight raise taxes will not be as high as last year, as the State's part is reduced 5 cents on the $100. Sheriff J. N. Menefee returned 634 delinquents, an increase of 24 over last year and $9,290 worth of property wrongly assessed, or which had been moved away, a decrease of $5,082. Squire G. P. Bright offered a resolution, which was adopted, asking the Legislature to pass a law permitting those counties which wanted them to have the benefit of convict labor in building county roads, and Hon. D. B. Edmiston was requested to present such a bill. The court refused 8 to 7 to appropriate $1,000 a mile for the Kingsville turnpike, which, it is estimated, will cost from $1,200 to $1,400 a mile. Attorney J. B. Paxton was ordered to collect taxes from banks on their real and other property, which they have not paid since 1886, on the grounds that the 75 cents on the $100 of their capital was in full for all taxes. The sheriff was granted the commissioner's office for his use and the court then adjourned till fall.

THE Glee Club meets to night. "Find where and come there" is all the information as to the place given on the invitations.

THE Stephensonian Literary Society will hold an open meeting Monday evening, April 17, at 7:30 o'clock, at the Stanford Male Seminary building, to which the public is cordially invited. The subject for discussion will be: Resolved "That Women should Have Unlimited Suffrage." In addition to the regular exercises, Prof. P. W. Johnson will deliver an oration, Prof. C. H. Holmes a declamation and W. S. Burch will read an essay. By order of the Society. W. S. Burch, secretary.

THOSE who never mind the weather so the wind don't blow, had good cause to mind it Tuesday and Wednesday, when very high winds prevailed. On the morning of the latter day we received a dispatch to hoist the danger signal, as severe local storms and possibly cyclones were probable. There was no cyclone, but an electric storm, accompanied by a water spout, almost, and hail, raged at night. Lightning struck the wires and ran into Penny's drug store, but the ar reater put a check to it and it went on its way, after playing around the circuit awhile.

TOOK THE VEIL.—A dispatch from Paris says: Miss Mary Craig, the pretty 17-year-old Millersburg girl, who eloped with Scene Painter C. C. Leon to Cincinnati and married him, has gone to Tennessee to enter a convent and take the veil. After being heartlessly deserted by Leon she returned home, but her life was not a pleasant one. While her father was out on a fishing excursion the other day she quietly left home closely veiled. It now turns out that Leon has another wife, whose relatives are looking for the gay scene painter, and will doubtless make it warm for him if found.

NYE IN CALIFORNIA.HE ROOMS AT LARGE IN ITS LUXU- RIANT ORANGE GROVES.Why He Will Not Visit the World's Fair.
Something About a Big Hotel and How It Is Located—Meeting an Old Friend.(Copyright, 1893, by Edgar W. Nye.)
AMONG THE ORANGES AND LEMONS,
March.The contrast between Maine and southern California as rival winter resorts is very great. Here the orange is picked during the entire year, and it is estimated that enough oranges fall off and are plowed under as fertilizers each year
to supply the new state of Wyoming completely the year round.It is estimated that established orange orchards of a good quality yield 10 per cent on the investment. Of course poor brands of oranges, just like ill chosen orchards of poor, miserable apples, yield much less. A young orchard not only does this after it is in bearing, but increases very greatly in value each year.
This information I get from old and tried friends and not from agents, and I speak especially of Riverside, where the orange is found in its greatest perfection and free from disease.The banana grows in southern California, but would rather not. It was induced to try this country by the tarantula, which flourishes here and loves to dust off one's chest with its hairy legs.
An amateur Cleopatra here used the tarantula with great effect in taking her own life in the closing scene, but the bite
of the tarantula involved so much shriek
dancing and calisthenics that the scenic effect was good and did much to revive "Cleopatra" on the coast.As I write this it is raining great big inches of eastern rain of the wet kind,
and yet a hospitable man has his open
vicar at the door for me to go riding
for the purpose of adding to my collection
of scenery.Hospitality is one of the best products
of the human heart, and there is no danger of overproduction, but I am so thoroughly gorged with scenery from the Natural Bridge in Virginia to the Golden Gate that when any one says scenery to me I writhe. Orange orchards are rare and beautiful sights, but when I can sit in this warm room gathered about a big coal fire and see miles of them from the window, why should I put on my fur overcoat and a mackintosh in order to freeze and cry out with assumed delight
every half mile while I gradually get Pomona of the lungs?

IN AN ORANGE ORCHARD.

Everything grows here that one can
well ask for except hard wood and coal.
Coal here mostly comes from British Columbia and Australia.The seasons of the year here don't know enough to come in when it rains.
As a well known San Francisco poet and chirpologist so truly and sweetly describes it:"Tis the land where it's always afternoon.
The seasons of which the savants tell us
are four—viz. spring, summer, autumn
and winter—but they are not used here at
all. You have to keep a calendar in order to know whether it's Christmas or the Fourth of July, and though roses grow in great big masses wherever you put them a bearskin overcoat with the pocket
full of moth powder should not be over eight feet above the year round.In California you don't ask for a room at the hotel where you get a fine prospect. You ask for one that the sun shines on and in.California will doubtless supply the most beautiful and interesting exhibit of any state at the World's fair. I shall not go to the exposition, for I cannot bear
the humiliation of seeing North Carolina's meager showing compared with the enterprise and wonderful beauty of this state's exhibit.An entire orchard of oranges in bearing has been taken up bodily, and with the trees carefully boxed and the roots and soil complete will be reproduced at Chicago. That is only a little pointer on the style of enterprise that will crop out wherever California's name appears.I compare this with North Carolina because one of the fair officials from North Carolina has spoken to me several times about her utter negligence in regard to the matter and the sorrowful display as it will appear when compared with other states. Should this reminder be the means of arousing a sickly ambition I am content.North Carolina beats the world on apples, and the pokederry ink grown there is redder than any I have ever before encountered. As the poet so truly and so graphically goes on to state:Oh, how I love to write upon the hotel letterhead
And chase a thought with nimble, trenchant
pen.To squeeze the berry of the poke judiciously
And jerk with joy a drop of ink!Oh, what a glorious thing is thought,
And what a joy to make a nation think!In using the above and quoting from myself I give utterance to a sentiment that every one has experienced.The Coronado Beach hotel, near San Diego, is about the largest hotel at whichI ever put up so much as I did when I came away from the place. The surf is heard beating with a low San Diego boom against the beach. This boom costs one $3 per day. Food, lodging and boom each $2. Still that is cheap for a boom.I remained three-quarters of a day at the San Diego hotel and then resumed work. I hate to be idle. The Coronado cost a very large sum of money, but did not pay, so a creditor bought it for $100,- 000, and while he was thinking what he would do with it was offered $1,000,000.
He accepted it at once, as he already had another hotel.It was full when I was there at living rates, say $6 to $65 per day. The courtyard contains 80 acres of land, which is very valuable, as people are constantly settling up in the neighborhood—if they can. The dining room is bounded as follows: Beginning at the southeast corner
at a sideboard; thence running 8 poles 2 chains and 3 links to a palm tree; thence south 11 poles 2 chains and 4 links to a fireplace; thence west 47 degrees 8 poles 3
chains and 2 links; thence north 10 poles
1 chain 2 links to place of beginning.Invalids are admitted if they will agree not to die in the house. In one room, under the bell push, the following statement was made:Guests need not ring for water, as a good spring will be found in the bed.The way to find the Coronado hotel on the landing in San Diego is to look first for the opera house, where we appear. The following is a drawing of it from memory:A represents the auditorium. B proscenium.
C dressing room. D people gaily entering.Inquire there, and you will be shown the Coronado, which you will recognize by the rates which come into view long before the hotel is reached.Carriage hire and Mount Hood are the two highest things on the coast aside
from that.San Diego county is larger than Massachusetts, but not so thickly populated.
It is a balm for the consumptive if he will be a little careful about taking cold.
The climate and bay are so soft and equable that most every consumptive has a nice big palm over his grave.This statement is not intended to reflect on the climate. Many consumptives
come here and live as long as they care
to. Still it is a lovely spot.At Riverside I met my old friend W.
J. McIntyre. Years ago he was the agent of the government at the seal islands.
He staid there with his family for years
among the Aleut Indians and studied the whole seal industry. He made a long and careful report, showing how the government might with a thorough, careful supervision kill 100,000 seals per year and not damage the plant. This report took all his spare time while there. He returned in fur garments, he and his wife
and little girl, and with a head of whiskers that people came hundreds of miles to see.The New York press was eager to get some of the matter contained in his report, but he said, "No, it belongs to the government." So, although he was not rich, he was loyal. He took the report to his chief and offered it to him.The chief, who is now no more, having been ere this judged for his crookedness, said haughtily to Captain McIntyre: "When the government wants a report from you, it will signify it. Good morning." Captain McIntyre, who was reduced then and did not know that cabinet officers sometimes stood in with a seal killing syndicate, threw the carefully prepared document in the grate
and began the practice of law. His advice would, if followed, have saved all Behring sea trouble.He has been rewarded, and I am glad to see that things are going his way.
Honesty is not always fatal to prosperity.
California is noted for its roads and streets. I took a 12-mile ride the other day without fatigue, ate 16 large navel
oranges and picked out a good orange grove for my wife. Orange groves are worth from $700 to $1,100 per acre, according to the age of trees and the quality or variety of the fruit. Ten acres or twenty is the size of the average orchard.
A man can be hired reasonably to take care of the trees and attend to the marketing. I took half an acre.

EATING SIXTEEN LARGE ORANGES.

I got a good man who promised to take care of it at a reasonable price per year
and not eat any without consulting me at New York. I thought of this plan myself and will introduce it into California.The Pacific ocean reminds me very much of the Atlantic and evidently belongs to the same family. It contains salt, seaweed and the Sandwich Islands.
The people of California are, after all,
the best feature of the whole country.
The cream of the ambition, kindness,
industry and thrift of the older states is here. It explains why you sometimes strike an old deserted village in the farwest, where only the old or incapacitated are to be met with. The young are here.
Booms may come, and booms may go, but California will go on forever.Bill NyeP. S.—Thanks are hereby extended to Mr. Isaac W. Lord, who attended our performance at San Bernardino and laughed heartily during the evening.

With Thanks.

Lord Chumpley—Do you return my love?Miss Millyons—Why, yes; I haven't the slightest use for it.—Truth.A Generous Soul.He was leaning against the corner of a building on Main street and discussing the hardships incident to the life of a laboring man. "I don't care what they say," he announced, "I believe it's the duty of every man to provide liberally for his family. Of course I don't say that the wife shouldn't help, if she can, but I mean that a man who is married and has children should be liberal and not go around blowing in his stuff at bars for

DO YOU WANT TO ADOPT A BABY?

Maybe you think this is a new business, sending out babies on application; it has been done before, however, but never have these babies been so near the original source as this one. Everyone will exclaim, "Well, that's the sweetest baby I ever saw!" This little black-and-white engraving can give you but a faint idea of the exquisite original.

"I'M A DAISY."

which we propose to send to you, transportation paid. The little darling rests against a pillow, and is in the act of drawing off its pink sock, the mate of which has been pulled off and flung aside with a triumphant coo. The flesh tints are perfect, and the eyes follow you, no matter where you stand. The exquisite reproductions of this greatest painting of Ida Waugh, the most celebrated of modern painters of baby life are to be given to those who subscribe to Demorest's Family Magazine for 1893. The reproductions cannot be told from the original, which cost $400, and are the same size (17x22 inches). The baby is life size, and absolutely lifelike. We have also in preparation, to present to our subscribers during 1893, other great pictures by such artists as Percy Moran, Maud Humphrey, Louis Deschamps, and others of world-wide renown. Take only two examples of what we did during the past year, "A Yard of Pansies," and "A White House Child," by the wife of President Harrison, and you will see what our promises mean.

Those who subscribe for Demorest's Family Magazine for 1893 will possess a gallery of exquisite works of art of great value, besides a Magazine that cannot be equaled by any in the world for its beautiful illustrations and subject matter, that will keep everyone posted on all the topics of the day, and all the fashions and different items of interest about the household, besides furnishing interesting reading matter, both grave and gay, for the whole family; and while Demorest's is not a fashion Magazine, its fashion pages are perfect, and we give you, free of cost, all the patterns you wish to use during the year, and in any size you choose. Send in your subscription at once, only $2, and you will really get over $25 in value. Address the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York. If you are unacquainted with the Magazine, send 10 cents for a specimen copy.

SYMPATHY AS AN ART

MRS. FRANK LESLIE SUGGESTS A SOCIAL REVOLUTION.

The Fellow Feeling That Preserves Golden Silence—Sorrow More Cruel Than Death—The Unselfish but Unwise Love. A Brilliant Woman's Suggestions.

(Copyright, 1893, by American Press Association. All rights reserved.)

I DON'T know any circumstance of social life so "trying to men's souls" on both sides as the circumstance demanding sympathy. Death is bad enough, but it is by no means the worst. Most of us have been through that dark and terrible hour when that which seemed our all has been laid away from our sight and from among men, and our friends have come dressed in somber clothes, and with somber and set countenances have one by one insisted upon laying bare the wound we would fain hide under our mourning garb, and expressing more or less crudely, more or less delicately, the sympathy of which they have come to assure us. It is a social necessity that they should come. We should feel surprised and slighted if they did not, and we do not dream of shirking the painful duty either of receiving or of paying visits of condolence, and yet I often wonder if it would not be well to induce a social revolution wherein this and several other time honored customs should be swept away.

Time honored indeed, for speaking of this matter the other day to a friend I was told that when Job fell into affliction his three friends at once made an appointment to meet and make a collective call of condolence. But—and here please observe the superiority of discretion in the days of Job compared with ours—having arrived with Job they sat down upon the ground, and for seven days and nights nobody spoke a word! Now, we don't have time in this era to sit in silence seven days and nights in the presence of our friends, but I often think if our custom was to go and sit seven minutes, more or less, beside our friend and then go away with a mute caress or clasp of the hand, how much better it would be than to try to say something, and that generally the wrong thing. I shall never forget a dear little unconventional widow whom I went to see just after the sudden and shocking death of her young husband.

"It was so good of you to come; but, oh, don't say a word—not one word!" gasped she, and I almost literally complied.

Yes, bereavement is bad enough, and to very few, if to any, is it given to speak the words of comfort or reassurance. But there are sorrows far more cruel than death; there are bereavements sudden and more hopeless than those of the grave, and it is in these that sympathy may indeed despair of fitly expressing itself, even by sitting silently seven days and nights in its presence.

A man in some prominent position of trust becomes a defaulter and runs away, leaving his wife and family to bear the shame and notoriety of his crime, perhaps leaving them in poverty and debt as well, for very few criminals commit but one kind of sin. A defaulter is usually intensely selfish and considers his own desires so exclusively that he not only appropriates moneys not his own, but his neighbor's wife as well, and is utterly callous as to the suffering of all sorts to which he condemns the woman lawfully his own.

Now, what sympathy can one express to such a mourner as that wife? What word would seem other than presumptuous and intrusive to such bereavement? And yet we all do feel sorry for her; we all do long to let her know it and to comfort her.

Some of us who have struggled in deep waters ourselves shrink from the attempt and contrive some other mode of showing the true sympathy we feel, and yet there is grief so deeply dyed with shame that positively no notice should be taken of it—even a box of flowers, even a new book or a card, would serve to hint at condolence too strongly, and we remember that though speech is silver silence is often golden.

But yet again there are griefs even deeper and more sensitive than that of the insulted and deserted wife; there is an agony of shame not to be shifted to other shoulders than one's very own; there is a bereavement known to all the world and yet which the sufferer would fain hide from even her own eyes, and this is when a woman has too readily yielded up her affections to one who simply amused himself with her easy credulity, and when her devotion began to pull "he kissed and rode away." Every one in her little world knows the whole story. The malicious whisper: "Well, she threw herself at his head. What could she expect?" The kinder hearted ones murmur: "Poor thing! I was afraid he didn't mean anything." And the sharpest sting of her mortification is that she knows that they all know and are scornful at her or pitying her. Still she can bear it so long as nobody says anything, but they will!

There are sure to be at least two or three well meaning fools who want "to express their sympathy," who in fact insist upon doing so in spite of all the wriggles and pantings of their victim—as helpless as a frog under a crocheted stick, with a cruel boy at the other end, or, more appropriately, a frog in the clutches of a vivisectionist, who is determined to lay open the throbbings of poor froggie's heart in the interests of humanity! This sympathizer bides her time. She waits until she can pen her victim in a corner, or penetrate to her bedroom, or get her into a victoria, or a buggy where no interruption is possible, and then she begins: "My dear child, I want to tell you how dreadfully sorry I am for your disappointment, but how came you to suppose Mr. Smith was serious in his attentions? Tell me all about it, dear. It will comfort your poor heart to speak out. Did the man ever really ask you to marry him?" And so on until the deserted damsel is ready to fling herself out of the vehicle under the horse's feet and feels that the loss of her lover is as nothing compared with the shame of being pitied and sympathized with.

Or take the case of a man who has been horsewhipped or kicked or slapped in the face by another man stronger and bigger and therefore braver than himself. He doesn't want to know that his friends are sorry for him! He would much rather be suffered to imagine that they hadn't heard of it, and yet there are plenty of thick skinned idiots who will on the first opportunity rush up to him with outstretched hand:

"My dear fellow, I want to tell you how indignant I am at the way that brute treated you! Fairly kicked you down the steps of the clubhouse, they tell me! Just like these great hulking brutes who think, because they are big and strong, a little fellow like you or me must give in to all their insolence!"

Probably the man thus apostrophized at once measures the other "little fellow" with his eye and mentally decides that he can thrash him at least and will do so on the first opportunity.

Among my acquaintances on one side or the other of the water I am proud to include a lady whose father was hung, and justly so, for murder. Of course the most of her friends painfully avoided my subject within rifle shot of the subject, but I heard that more than one well meaning person had attempted to sympathize with her and thereby nearly drove the poor woman to madness.

Or think of a mother whose son has committed some shameful crime and is either a fugitive from justice or is suffering her penalties. Fancy any sympathy, even the most delicate being anything but an offense to such a sufferer. In fact, there is no love upon whose death it is not safer to count than upon that of a mother. It is positively indestructible, and I have never found any other class of love to which that word would apply. Certainly some wives have loved some husbands, some maidens have loved some lovers, some women have loved some men "not wisely, but too well," through good report and ill, through fortune and misfortune, cruelty and kindness, faithfulness and unfaithfulness, even to the bitter end, but this unreasoning constancy cannot be predicted of wives or fiancées or mistresses as a rule. Much depends upon the individual.

But in the case of mothers it is the rule, especially as regards her sons. The bad boy may develop into the unmitigated scamp, the profligate, the villain, the jailbird, but though she may be driven to discard him, to banish him from her sight, to declare that she no longer calls him son, there is always at the core of her heart an undying flame of love, a divine forgiveness and pity and longing that she could not if she would quench or destroy. Let the sinner but reach his mother's feet, let him never so clumsily plead, "Mother, I have sinned—oh, forgive me!" and his pardon is assured. Even though her judgment, her reason, her conscience, sternly condemn him, that mother love of hers will rise up and drown them all in the torrent of its deathless force.

In the Scripture story it is set forth as a memorable thing that the father of the prodigal son forgave him. It is not even mentioned that his mother did, for, not to be irreverent, "that goes without saying." Doubtless she had forgiven him long before he set out for home, and indeed it is probable enough that it was the telepathy of her love and forgiveness that induced him to relinquish his foul living and return.

Well, then, is it not obvious that with such love as this in the background no mother will patiently accept sympathy for her son's misdeeds? It will only anger her and rouse her to defend him even though no defense be possible. If she is a womanish sort of woman, she will probably adopt the "tu quoque" form of resentment and say: "Yes, I know Harry has done a foolish thing, but it arose entirely from his desire to help and shield a friend. You must remember all young men are not like your John, always considering what is best for his own interests."

If she is not womanish, but womanly, the best you can expect is, "Thank you, but this is a subject upon which I do not wish to talk."

I was once speaking with a lady in London whose son had just been pursued and brought back from the continent under a charge of aggravated breach of trust when another lady came up and took her hand with a murmur of "Dear Mrs. Blank, I want to tell you how sorry I am!" "What! You have heard of it already?" exclaimed Mrs. Blank, with a smile like the flash of a bayonet. Then half turning to me she continued: "I have lost my coachman, you know. Actually the poor fellow dropped dead in the stables this morning, and I am perfectly heartbroken. The best old soul that ever held a whip. He was my father's coachman and actually put me on the first pony I ever rode. But I can't think how you heard of it so soon, my dear, except that I believe you make it a point to gather every bit of news that is stirring, don't you?" And with this neat little blow in the face Mrs. Blank sailed away, leaving her would be sympathizer gasping.

But there is no need of swelling the list of cases where the truest sympathy is expressed by apparent ignorance of any cause for sympathy. Every person of delicacy or a sensitive organization will recognize such cases for themselves, and to those who are not delicate and sensitive in their own personality no amount of teaching will effect the object. You cannot train a rhinoceros into a thin skinned Arab steed, nor a cactus into a sensitive plant. Most people and most things are very much what they are born, and the clumsy sympathizers no doubt will exist when the world ceases, just as it did when it began to be.

But there are cases, and plenty of them, where true and tender sympathy is like the very dew of heaven upon the parched and drooping flowers. There are tender souls that long for sympathy, just as a little child holds up its hurt finger for every one to "kiss and make well." To such persons, and to sorrow of the ordinary outspoken sort, with no tinge of shame about it, let us give sympathy with a free and generous hand. But, above all, let it be the right kind of sympathy. It is in many cases, if not in all, more blessed to give than to receive, and this applies to gifts of sympathy quite as much as to more tangible matters.

I once knew a lady who said she had been to church all her life, but had not been able to acquire grace sufficient to enjoy being pitied by anybody for anything. Of course this was pride, and pride is naughty, but very universal. Sometimes it takes the form of amour propre, which is something a little different from self love, although that is the only English equivalent for the phrase. But amour propre is a very delicate thing to handle. Sometimes it is hurt by being touched; sometimes it is still more hurt by being let alone; sometimes such a person as this wants to be sympathized with, and yet is irritably watchful lest the sympathy they demand should seem to place them at fault for their misfortune.

You say to such a one, "How could you trust that man when every one said he was dishonest?" and the sufferer nearly flies in your face with the assertion that she is no more credulous than other people; but, etc.

It is, in one word, a very dangerous and delicate matter either to give or receive sympathy, and all I can say is, remember, like fire, water and gunpowder, it is a good thing so long as you know how to manage it, but if you don't—for heaven's sake, let it alone.

(My Friend John)

Chicago's First Child.

In winterless southern California a pleasant faced old lady, Mrs. Susan Winans, is restfully passing the close of life. Children and grandchildren attend her, nor blizzards nor cyclones nor biting cold nor scorching heat annoy.

Yet midst wars, massacres and privations of every kind her life began. At the Fort Dearborn massacre of 1812 her baby ears heard terrible sounds, and her innocent eyes may have seen father and brother murdered. At a mother's breast she clung close that no savage club might bruise her tender frame. Then came wigwam life and weary marching from Indian camp to Indian camp. Thus the first year of her life passed away, and the fair haired child little dreamed, when at last safe in her grandfather's house, that where her eyes first saw the light some time would stretch a monster city, some time be held an exposition on so magnificent a scale as to astonish the world, and this be her renown—that she was the first white child born where now tower Chicago's myriad blocks.

But having felt all of life's vicissitudes in western wilderness, now, in her rose covered cottage in southern California, she peacefully waits the end.

Precautions.

It is astonishing that any one should neglect so simple a precaution as that of always carrying her address in her pocketbook. That has been known to bring it back to the owner when lost, if the finder happened to be honest. Yet plenty of people don't take the trouble.

Another "slight precaution" might save a great deal of anxiety to the parents of small children and occasional frights to the children themselves. Those who are too little to tell where they live or apt to forget it when they are bewildered, should have the address plainly written on a card and kept about them. Some of these little people who have pockets take such pride in them that they can be trusted to keep such a card safely there, and with still smaller ones the writing could be on a strip of linen sewed inside of the outer garment, like the Jimmy Johns' flannel peppermints in Mrs. Diaz's charming story. Any child that can walk, even if it isn't allowed out alone, might be separated from its mother or nurse, and if the first person who passed could take him home persons of anxiety might be saved.

WOLVES CHASE A WHEELMAN.

An Accident Saves the Life of a Bicyclist in Russia.

Fred Whishaw, who went to Russia with his bicycle, got chased by wolves in the Pskov district. He had been out some 12 miles from Lavrik looking for elk and tell in Land and Water this story of his return:

I had ridden but a mile or two on the return journey when it struck me I ought to alight and refresh my machine with a few drops of oil, but hardly was I on foot than I saw something which at first sight caused a thrill of pleasurable excitement, but soon gave place to very different sensations. Hardly a quarter of a mile behind were five large gray wolves. I was speedily up and away and caused the pedals to whirl in a manner to which they were entirely unused.

I had at least 10 miles to go before I should reach safety. I might possibly do that in three-quarters of an hour if the machine and my breath held out. Could the wolves accomplish the distance in less time? When I had ridden a few miles, I ventured to glance back. The brutes had gained 100 yards at least! At this rate they would pull me down before I could reach Lavrik unless indeed they could not keep up the pace, which was rather hot.

Another two miles and another peep behind me. The wolves were barely 200 yards away now. I tried a spurt. The road was as level as a billiard table, and I strained every nerve to the utmost. But I could never keep up the terrific rate at which I was now traveling. I must economize all my staying powers in order to last out the distance at even my former rate of progress.

I then suddenly an idea occurred to me. I would ring my bell loudly and continuously and see what effect this would produce. I pressed the gong and turned around to observe whether the sound would check my pursuers. The effect was instantaneous. No sooner did the first clang of the gong ring out than the wolves stopped dead and disappeared behind the trees. I gave a yell of defiance and delight and dashed on, ringing away for dear life, but my triumph was short lived. On looking back a few moments after I found that my foes were again in full pursuit. However, I had gained a little.

On we flew, my gong sounding harsh and strident in the silence of the forest. It was magnificent; at least it would have been if it had not been so horribly dangerous. I turned my head to look round upon my pursuers for the twentieth time. They were still gaining, and were now within 50 yards. Hearing a loud clatter in front of me, I turned back again to see what new danger threatened me from that direction. In this twisting back and round again I got in a rut, and before I had time to see what was happening was buried a couple of feet deep in the snow at the side of the road.

I gave myself up for lost. All this did not take long to happen, and as I emerged from the snow I was in time to see two things. The first object which met my gaze was a magnificent bull elk, followed by four smaller ones, trotting across the road not 10 yards from me, their heads well raised and resting back on their shoulders. The other object was the little pack of wolves. Scarcely 50 yards behind me when I awoke, these were upon me in a moment, and I had barely time to seize the heavy spanner of my machine and put my back to a tree when, to my delight, the wolves, then but five yards from me, pricked up their ears, passed me like a flash of greased lightning and darted away in pursuit of the elk. I picked up my bicycle and rode away with all speed. I think I rode those three miles in "record time." Anyhow it was 15 minutes less than two hours from the start when I scudded into Lavrik, and if I had not ridden 25 miles I must have done very near it.

How a Coat of Tar Feels.

Costs of tar and feathers are not mentioned in the fashion journals as among the fads likely to become popular. Though little objection could be urged against the perfection of their fit, and though the humiliation now generally coupled with their involuntary assumption might be overcome by an assiduous cult in their favor, certain little inconveniences attending the wearing of them would undoubtedly interfere with their general adoption. The body is covered with minute hairs. These become entangled in the hot tar, and when it contracts on cooling many are actually pulled out by the roots, while every one is a center of pain. A man thoroughly tarred is in constant torture until relieved of his envelope, and if he does not get rid of it in a short time death will result from the closing of the pores of the skin. A coat of tar and feathers is a veritable shirt of Nessus, for its removal is difficult and attended by great pain. It is one of the worst punishments in every way that can be inflicted.

Counterfeiters Caught by a Train Boy.

A sharp newsboy on a Baltimore and Ohio railroad train recently caused the arrest of a gang of counterfeiters in the lower part of Wood county, W. Va. Two men carelessly gave the boy a couple of bad coins, arousing his suspicions, and he made a complaint before the United States commissioner at Parkersburg, with the result that the gang was run down at Pond Creek, some miles from Parkersburg, and all their tools, molds, metals and other paraphernalia unearthed, together with a lot of counterfeit small coins, which are said to be excellent imitations of the genuine articles. The men said they manufactured their spurious coin in broad daylight, thinking that the best time to avoid detection. The towns in Wood county are said to have been flooded with the counterfeiters, and one of the gang, who made a confession, said they had disposed of $500 in nickels in Pittsburgh.

Like to Read of Divorce Trials.

The English public seems to have an exceptionally violent taste for divorce literature. The space given to it in the most conservative and respectable London papers surprises American readers. London has a new paper, The Divorce Gazette, which gives special reports of current divorce cases, without omitting any details of the evidence.

VICTOR : HUGO.

This fine young stallion will make the season of 1893 at my place, 1 1/2 miles from Shelby City, on the Knob Lick pike, at $12.50 to Insure a Living Colt.

Victor Hugo is a beautiful red sorrel goes all the gaits and is a regular Jim Dandy nice one.

He was sired by Gilt Edge 261, he by Second Jewel 48. Second Jewel was sired by Cunningham's Jewel, he by old Washington Denmark.

Gilt Edge's dam was by Stonewall Jackson.

Victor Hugo's dam was by St. Elmore,
she by Logan's Gill, she by Gill's Vermont. Gill's Vermont out of Anna C. dam of Lee Paul.

Money due when colt comes or mare parted with. Mares grazed or fed at reasonable prices. Not responsible for accidents should any occur.

JOHN SANDIDGE,
Shelby City, Ky.

ROYAL KING.
Foaled 1890. Red bay, 16 hands high.
Full brother to Silver King, Gold King,
Silver Queen and the great show mare,
Allie G.

By On Time. 1st dam Mollie Mountz.
Silver King was burned in Rue's stable
when 5 years old; sired more good saddle horses than any horse in Kentucky at the same age. Gold King was bred to two mares at 2 years old and got two colts—
no better in this country; see Sam Harris and Billy Murphy. Silver Queen, shown by Bill Rue, was a great winner. Allie G., educated by Nels Rowland, was hard to down. Her present owner refused $2,500 for her.

Royal King will serve fifteen mares at my stable, near Pink Cottage.

At $15 to Insure a Living Colt.
JOE E. FARRIS,
Stanford, Ky.

BLACK JIM.
COMBINED STALLION.

Black Jim is a beautiful dapple black of magnificent form; 16 1/2 hands with heavy mane and tail. Is 6 years old and one of the best combined horses south of the Kentucky river.

Sired by old Stonewall Jackson 72, he by old Washington Denmark 64, he by Gaines Denmark, he by Imp. Hedgeford.

1st dam Mollie Brown, by Stonewall
Jackson Jr; 2d dam Mambrino Patchen
58; 3d dam by Hamiltonian.

Black Jim has taken two premiums, one at London and one at Somerset. Will make the present season at my stable 1 1/2 miles west of Crab Orchard.

At $7 to Insure a Living Colt.
Money due when colt is 30 days old or mare parted with or bred to another horse.
S. A. MIDDLETON,
Crab Orchard Ky.

TWO COMBINED HORSES

Will make the season of 1893 at my stable near half way between Danville and Stanford, and about one mile east from Danville and Stanford pike.

MESSENGER DENMARK
(register No. 741 Vol. 2) is about 16 hands
high, a bright chestnut, sired by On Time.
1st dam by Sumpter Denmark; 2d dam
by Messenger; 3d dam thoroughbred.
This fine young four-year-old horse goes
all the saddle and harness gaits nicely and will serve mares at $10 to insure a living colt.

FRANK.
Frank is by a Denmark horse. 1st dam
by Polar Star; 2d dam by colt of Tom Hill; 3d dam Harry Bright's old family saddle mare. Frank is about 15 hands high, a light sorrel, a perfect saddle horse
and has proven himself a breeder of premium saddle and combined horses, his colts taking premiums at Harrodsburg in saddle gelding rings and at Danville, too;
also combined ring at Danville, one of his geldings, shown by Dock Drye, at Stanford, competing with both sexes,
taking second ribbon, and at Lancaster, premiums. Frank has been kept for a family horse and has served but few mares. Will insure a living colt for $10.
Both horses are safe for women and children to ride, with no vicious habits.
Both are standard and can be registered.
J. T. HACKLEY.
